Cover Wide Area in Air Pollution Hearing Here

Approximately 70 representatives from the Federal Public Health Service, health department officials from Ulster Greene, Columbia and other nearby counties, and professional and business people today attended a public hearing on air pollution at the County Office Building in Kingston.

The session was called by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick for all interested parties in the 28th Congressional District encompassing Ulster, Greene, Columbia and Dutchess Counties.

Congressman Resnick opened the hearing at 9:30 a. m. stating its purpose was "to determine how great a problem air pollution is in the Hudson Valley; to determine the scope of it, the size and area; to see if it is as bad as people think it is; to see what we can do now to solve the problem, and to see what we can do in the future in the way of federal legislation."

Many persons attending the morning session were housewives, owners and representatives of cement and stone plants in the area, and health officials.

Harry Edinger, Ulster County sanitary engineer, was the first witness heard. He pointed out that the Board of Health had conducted a survey of air pollution in the county.

"Did the Board of Health, after the survey, suggest to the Board of Supervisors that a pollution control board be set up?" Resnick asked.

Edinger stated that no such recommendation had been made by the Board of Health.

Reads Statement

Jack Marquardt read a statement prepared by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, in which the Assemblyman stated that adequate local and state laws were on the books or under consideration.

Mrs. Vett Bernard, an Eddyville housewife, took the floor to tell the Congressman about air pollution in the Hudson Valley. She said she resides about two miles from a Nytralite plant, and she didn't feel that any filters were used at the plant. "In the winter," she said, "there is so much grey and black on the snow that you almost can't tell what color the snow is."

Mrs. Bernard continued to say, "you can smell it, you can taste it. I have a cistern and all the water I have is what comes off the roof of my house. I have to eat it as well as inhale it. It is terrific. No one has any idea what we have to put up with."

Charles Yaffery, Public Health Service, Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare, emphasized that the federal government did have a stake in clean air, but that the impetus

Developers Are Needed In UR Area

Thousands Lost In Assessments

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan stressed today the need for developers in the Urban Renewal areas, especially in areas where the city has already lost thousands of dollars in assessments due to UR demolition on sites yet to be developed.

He told The Freeman that the Urban Renewal Agency "is going to have to write every developer in the country to see if they can get them interested" in Kingston. He said that "They have got to get some source of revenue."

In three particular developments, the mayor reported that:

1. The city has lost $69,700 in assessment on downtown properties in the Broadway East UR project where the Kingston Housing Authority is to erect a 135-unit housing project.

2. The State of New York Equalization Board has just completed a survey of properties in Kingston, and there appears to be a number of properties which are both over and under-assessed.

3. He has written Frank A. Reis, chairman of the Urban Renewal Agency, calling on the Agency to seek developers for both the Broadway East and Uptown UR project.

On the last item, Mayor Garraghan said, "I see many millions in new assessments available to us if we act fast . . . so let's get the show on the road."

Loss of $69,700

Garraghan said the figure of $69,700 on assessment loss was compiled by City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl, and represents the assessments lost last year due to demolition of properties in the Broadway East UR where the city gained revenues from assessments. The area is marked for construction of the 135-unit project to be constructed by the KHA.

Splashdown Is Close to Wasp

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini astronouts rode the Gemini 9 spaceship to a perfect safe landing in the Atlantic Ocean today, climaxing a sensational, often — troublesome flight highlighted by Eugene A. Cernan's record space walk.

Millions of television watchers had a ringside seat as the fourton ship, blackened by the fiery dash back through the earth's atmosprere, splashed into the sea ot 10 a. m. EDT about 345 miles east of Cape Kennedy—just four miles from the aircraft carrier Wasp.

The thrilling picture of the craft floating down under its orange and white parachute was beamed from the deck of the Wasp via the Early Bird satellite.

First So Close

It was the first time that a manned U.S. spacecraft had landed close enough to a recovery carrier to permit the live televising of the landing.

Command Pilot Thomas P. Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the flight, skillfully steered his tiny ship through a blazing reentry dive and "parked" it in the Atlantic Ocean "on the money."

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft back toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar to the bobbing craft.

Alls Well Signal

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four- to five-foot waves.

They appeared in exceellent condition, the divers reported.

The astronauts elected to stay in the spacecraft until the Wasp came alongisde.

The spacecraft hatch was opened nine minutes after touchdown and Stafford and Cernan stood up. Stafford shook hands with the swimmers.

It was a successful and dramatic end to a flight which had its ups and downs, with one problem after another plaguing the mission before and after the launching.

During 72 hours and 21 minutes in orbit, Cernan and Stafford circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

Their fiery return to earch started 160 miles above the Pacific Ocean near the international dateline when the craft's four retro-rockets fired with a jolt at 9:26 a.m. EDT.

The braking action slowed Gemini 9's 17,460-mile-and-hour speed by 300 miles and the craft, caught in the grip of earth's gravity, began the meteoric plunge back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Communications Good

Mission Control Center reported after the landing that the communications through the 34-minute re-entry period were better than on any of 12 previous U.S. man-in-space flights.

Only during a four-minute period when 3,000-degree heat shrouded the spacecraft in an ionization curtain was contact lost with the pilots.

"Have you got us in sight?" Stafford asked as Gemini 9 drifted down on its 84-foot chute.

The aircraft carrier Wasp advised that it did and added: "The whole world has you in sight."

The sailors on the Wasp crowded the deck as the big carrier turned to approach the spacecraft in the water and haul it aboard. They were cheering the astronauts riding in the mild seas.

Flight to Cape

Stafford and Cernan planned to spend only a few hours aboard the carrier, then fly to Cape Kennedy in the afternoon.

Gemini officials were anxious to start questioning them about the numerous problems that plagued them in space, primarily the fogged helmet visor that cut Cernan's space walk short after 2 hours 5 minutes, half an hour earlier than intended.

The frosted visor, combined with garbled radio communications, prohibited Cernan from using a rocket-powered back pack to maneuver in space.

Still, the walk was considered a remarkable success. Cernan was outside the orbiting Gemini 9 six times longer than U. S. astronaut Edward H. White II and 12 times longer than Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov — the two other men to venture into the alien weightless world far from their home planet.

Major Milestone

"This represents a major milestone," said Gemini program manager Charles Mathews. "We've learned so much on how hard EVA (extra-vehicular activity) is. We've learned man can go out and not become disoriented, not become excited and conduct it with a very rational approach."

The walk overshadowed earlier disappointments in the hard-luck flight whose troubles date back to last Feb. 28 when the original crew, astronauts Elliot M. See Jr., and Air Force Maj. Charles A. Bassett II, were killed in a jet plane crash.

Almost forgotten in the excitement of the Sunday stroll through the stars were the failure of an Atlas-Agena target rocket that caused one of three postponements and the "angry alligator" — a target satellite whose shrouded docking collar prevented a space linkup by Stafford and Cernan.

While Cernan became a hero as a record space-walker, Stafford earned plaudits for his

Bronx Youth Killed In Cairo; 37 in N. Y.

Thirty-six persons lost their lives in accidents in New York State during the past weekend, including a Riverdale youth who died of injuries as the result of a mishap on County Route 31, Town of Cairo, Greene County, and three persons who were fatally injured in an accident near Tuxedo, Orange County.

Several persons were injured in highway mishaps that were investigated by authorities in Ulster County and the City of Kingston.

Most Die On Highways

Twenty-seven of the 37 fatalities resulted from traffic accidents, eight persons were victims of drowning and one was killed in a racing vehicle mishap, according to The Associated Press.

Paul Michael DiMaio, 20, of Riverdale, was fatally injured at 7:10 p. m. Sunday when his car went out of control and overturned off County Route 31, Town of Cairo. He suffered multiple injuries, according to State Police Sergeant Joseph Cross, Leeds substation.

Janine Federico, age not listed, of New York City a passenger in the car suffered multiple rib fractures and a broken left wrist. She was taken to the Greene County Memorial Hospital Catskill for treatment.

Sergeant Cross said the car was going South and negotiating a left turn when it went off the west shoulder out of control and veered across the highway and overturned.

Withheld Verdict

Coroner Henry Millspaugh, Greene County, withheld a verdict pending further investigation by troopers.

Two teenagers were injured Sunday when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve on the North Ohioville Road north of Route 299, Town of New Paltz, and crashed into a utility pole.

Trooper J. F. Czaplicki of Highland said Michael Donohoe, 18, of Middletown, was driving his sedan north on the road when the vehicle crossed to the left of the highway and hit a pole.

Donohue sustained lacerations of the face. A passenger, Charles Donohue, 16, also of Middletown, received lacerations of the face, nose and neck. Both were taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment.

Troopers cited the driver for

Ky's Regime Lists Slate Of Civilians

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime put together a tentative list of 10 civilians today to join the 10 generals in the ruling junta. But the chief anti-Ky Buddhist faction said it wouldn't join the government even if asked.

The generals completed a slate of civilian additions to the junta several hours before the deadline agreed upon last week in negotiations between moderate elements of the Unified Buddhist Church and the Ky government seeking an end to South Viet Nam's political crisis.

Government sources said the list included two representatives of the church's powerful political arm — the Buddhist Institute — as well as Roman Catholics, several prominent politicians and representatives of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects.

Surprise Ahead

While the Ky regime attempted to live up to its political pact with the Buddhists, it appeared in for a surprise from the Electoral Commission it named to prepare the ground for the Sept. 11 elections for a Constitutional Assembly.

During a long debate Sunday night, 27 of the 32 commissioners were reported in favor of letting the assembly turn itself into a governing legislature after it drafts a constitution.

This would shorten the life of the military regime considerably and preclude the second round of voting for a legislature which Ky plans. The premier said last month that he probably wouldn't be able to step down until the middle of next year. However, the junta could reject the commission's recommendations.

While the politicking went on in Saigon, there were these developments in the war:

Surveyor 1 Puts Star In Viewer

Will Shutdown During Moon Day

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's lunar peeping tom, Surveyor I, its delicate footpads resting firmly on the moon's lumpy surface, has taken a long, long look at a star.

The spacecraft's accurate television eye sought and found Fairius, the brightest star in the sky, providing scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory with a good fix on Surveyor's exact location.

651 Photos Sent

The scientists said pictures of the bright star were received Sunday among 651 new photos of the lunar surface, some showing a range of hills in the distance.

The hills, or small mountains, had been noticed in earlier pictures, but only as small lumps in the distance. Far more detail was obtained, the scientists said, by switching to a narrow-angle, long-range lens.

Scientists planned to keep a close eye on Surveyor's reaction today to the sun's heat.

House Data Asked By Survey Group; To Record Sites

A field survey consisting of locating and researching every building in Ulster County built prior to 1850 is now underway according to the Historic Sites Committee of the Ulster County Planning Board.

With the aid of the Junior League of Kingston, an all-out effort is being made to acquire all information, factual and hearsay, concerning these buildings, for the purpose of recording, protecting, restoring, and maintaining historic sites significant to American history and culture.

According to a League spokesman, prompt cooperation by Kingston residents is essential since area preservation efforts are already being threatened by the Urban Renewal Program. If sufficient information is to be recorded it must be done before many of these buidings are designated for destruction.

Upon completion of the survey, which consists of recording, the external and interior features of each building in addition to the history, the material gathered will be recorded in the archives of the Library of Congress. Certain buildings will be designated historic sites with markers erected by them and historic areas will be set aside for future re-evaluation.

New York Tax Problem Seen As Roadblock

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Signs of a sudden split in the Republican leadership in the Legislature complicated the deadlocked dispute today over New York City's tax problems.

Leaders of both parties had hoped to resolve the city-tax impasse and adjourn the 1966 session this week, but Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia abruptly ruled out the possibility.

"It can't be done this week," Travia told the Associated Press. "We're too far away from settling this thing."

Republican minority leader Perry B. Duryea Jr., veered off the GOP course Sunday when he allowed that he would agree reluctantly to a "fair' city income tax on commuters.

The Legislature's top-ranking Republican, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, had flatly dismissed all possibility of a city income tax in a Senate floor speech last Thursday.

"You can forget it," Brydges told Democrats in taking a stand so strong that he seemed to leave no avenue for retreat.

Duryea's remarks appeared to bring him closer in line with Travia, the Legislature's leading Democrat, who has been espousing a scaled-down version of the income-tax plan first suggested by Lindsay.

Two Other Disputes

As the Senate and Assembly reconvened to begin their working week, action on two other deadlocked disputes loomed.

The Republican - controlled Senate planned to pass bills embodying the GOP approach to reapportioning county boards of supervisors and replacing the Condon-Wadlin Law with a new statute designed to discourage public-employe strikes.

Democrats had developed rival measures in both areas, but compromise talks conducted in recent weeks failed to produce

High Court Rules Sheppard Didn't Get Fair Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, Ohio physician, did not receive a fair trial in the bludgeon slaying of his first wife, Marilyn.

Justice Tom C. Clark, announcing the decision, said the court had concluded "that Sheppard did not receive a fair trial consistent with the due process clause of the 14th Amendment."

The court, therefore, Clark said, reversed a 2-1 decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which found no evidence that Sheppard had been deprived of federal rights.

Clark concluded his opinion by saying the Sheppard case

Red China Purge Declared Power Struggle Among Heirs of Mao

TOKYO (AP) — The Peking watchers believe the current purge in Red China is the beginning of a power struggle among Mao Tze-tung's heirs.

Following the ouster of powerful Peking Mayor Peng Chen from his party post, some observers predicted a showdown between President Liu Shao-chi and Premier Chou En-lai. Their theory was that Chou had Peng fired for fear he would try to grab Chou's position as premier. The observers said Peng had been maneuvering to become premier under President Liu's protection by blaming Chou for recent economic and diplomatic reverses.

Liu and Chou, both 67, are China's two most powerful men after Communist party chairman Mao, whose failing health is believed to have touched off the power struggle. Mao is 72 and makes few public appearances.

Those who foresee the power struggle continuing, with the purge catching even more prominent figures, say one of the next victims could be the army chief Lo Jui-ching. Lo disappeared from public view last November, one months after high-level party meetings.

Some say Lo may have disagreed with the aims and conduct of the purge, which in the early stages took the form of a campaign by army newspapers against intellectuals. If Lo was a friend of Mayor Peng, so the theory goes, then he also may have been aliged with the forces of President Liu, who suffered a setback with Peng's ouster.

Other observers see the possibility of a clash between President Liu and Defense minister Lin Piao, 57. Lin, who is also first deputy premier, recently put forth new lines of theory on how to implement Mao's teachings.

Another figure with a possible key role in the struggle is Teng Hsiao-ping, 61-year-old party secretary-general.

Teng's position is not yet clear but a leading Tokyo newspaper says he, too, may have thrown his support to Premier

CARDINAL DEDICATES PALTZ CHURCH— More than 2,000 attended dedication rites Sunday afternoon at the new $550,000 St. Joseph's Church in New Paltz. Participating in the festivities marking the culmination of the two-year building program are (l-r) the Rt. Rev. Joseph F. Blake, former pastor of St. Joseph's; the Rev. Joseph W. Hickey, assistant pastor; His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman of the Archdiocese of New York who blessed and dedicated the church; the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, and Roman Catholic dean of Ulster County and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward P. Monckton, pastor. A dinner was held in the air-conditioned church hall after the formal service. Joseph P. Foley gave the dedication address for the parishioners and State Assembly Speaker Anthony Travia gave the address of welcome. Plans for the church were launched in February 1964 with groundbreaking in the spring of 1965. The first Mass in the new church was offered Christmas Eve, 1965. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Small Nations Won't Get Tough With de Gaulle

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Atlantic Alliance meet today and the smaller nations were reported refusing to get tough with French President Charles de Gaulle. It appeared that they would succeed in postponing any head-on collision with the French leader.

Informed sources said Canada was leading the lesser powers in opposing withdrawal of NATO's political headquarters from Paris along with its military headquarters. De Gaulle has ordered NATO's military forces out of France by next April 1.

The United States wants NATO's military and political headquarters kept together and would like to move both to Brussels.

The American and British governments feel that France should not be accorded all the privileges of NATO membership without paying a fair price.

Canada, Denmark, Norway, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Portugal feel that to pressure De Gaulle now would risk a complete rupture with France. De Gaulle has said that France will remain a member of the alliance in a political sense, although withdrawing from its military framework.

The ministers are also divided on whether to insist that command of the 72,000 French troops in West Germany be linked politically as well as militarily with those of other NATO nations.

The French have expressed readiness to talk with the Germans about the status of the forces in Germany. They have also offered to have the functions of these troops worked out by French military men and U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, NATO's supreme commander in Europe.

The 14 other NATO members have been insisting on negotiations between France and a

Large Assortment of Bills Before Congress This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress faces a heavy schedule this week, with the promise of a long Fourth of July vacation in the offing.

If everything comes off according to plan, House Democratic Leader Carl Albert told the House last week, "it is 99 per cent certain" there will be a 10-day vacation over the Independence Day period.

House leaders plan votes this week on an assortment of legislation including an increase in the national debt ceiling, a $17.8-billion military procurement measure, the administration's Food for Freedom proposal, the annual legislative appropriation bill and a bill to change bail bond practices.

Although the administration wants the debt ceiling boosted to $332 billion, the House bill would raise the limit to only $330 billion from the present $328 billion.

The military procurement bill is $931 million more than sought by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. The legislative appropriations bill calls for $167 million to pay congressional costs in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The less-crowded Senate docket is highlighted by voting scheduled for Wednesday on a bill to require more specific labeling and packaging of consumer commodities.

Senate debate starts today on a bill extending government controls over bank holding companies by eliminating several existing exemptions. The bill would force the breakup of several companies.

Committees in both branches will continue hammering into shape major bills dealing with the foreign aid program, civil rights, appropriations and cruise ship safety regulations.

Calls for Action Now to Revise Federal Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York State's new medical-aid plan "is a sort of bizarre result" of provisions in the federal Medicare law, says the ranking minority member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. John W. Brynes, R-Wis., charged Sunday that Congress had been given erroneous information by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare when it passed the bill last year.

He said that "real quick" action was needed to revise the federal law, under which New York State passed a law pro-

Declare Hudson Is Most Readily Available Source

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal scientists say the Hudson River is the most readily available source of water to increase the New York City area's drought-sapped supplies.

A report submitted to President Johnson over the weekend cited desalting plants as a long-rate sources for fresh water but said they could not be considered as an emergency measure.

The reason is that it takes up to five years to build a desalinization plant, the report said.

Desalting is the process of making fresh water from salt or brackish water.

The federal study was begun last Aug. 11 when Johnson directed federal agencies to determine the feasibility of using desalting plants to ease drought conditions in the Northeast.

The study was made jointly by representatives of the Interior Department, the Federal Power Commission, the U.S. Geological Survey, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Council of Economic Advisers.

The report estimated that average annual costs of a large desalting plant would be about $77,000 per million gallons of water, compared with $37,000 for fresh Hudson River water.

Other Findings

A third alternative was the brackish water in the lower Hudson, with an estimated cost of $67,000 per million gallons.

These were among the other findings:

—Existing and planned water supply projects in the Northeast probably are adequate for 10 to 20 years but that timing could change if the drought continues.

— The drought may require emergency water-supply measures for another year or more,

Adhemar Removed

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's military dictatorship has removed Adhemar de Barros, controversial governor of Sao Paulo, the nation's richest state, apparently because he threatened the chances of the government candidate to succeed him.

President Humberto Castello Branco also stripped De Barros of his political rights for 10 years and named Lt. Gov. Laudo Natel to govern the province until elections scheduled for Sept. 3.

De Barros had helped put Castello Branco in power two years ago but had strongly opposed his policies in recent months.

There was no official explanation for the removal of De Barros, the most important political figure to be purged since the wholesale cleanout following the overthrow of President Joao Goulart in 1964.

But there were reports that the 65-year-old governor had accumulated a campaign fund of more than $1 million to use against Castello Branco's choice to succeed him, Abreu Sodre.

Living Memorials Aid Cancer Study

Many men and women who are grateful they do not have cancer, who know the pain and suffering that accompanies this disease and the burden it is to families, often wish to establish a Living Memorial for the American Cancer Society, George Svirskey, President of the Society's Ulster County Unit, reported today.

The American Cancer Society, New York State Division, Inc., offers every assurance that a Living Memorial, provided in one's will or insurance program, will be wisely used in its total attack on cancer through research education, and service to the cancer patient, to save more lives now and to help the final answer to cancer itself. Mr. Svirsky pointed out that the Society's New York State Division has the guidance and counsel of distinguished and dedicated physicians, researchers, businessmen, and women civic leaders. It is incorported under the laws of the State of New York; has tax-exempt status with the Internal Revenue Service; and is reviewed and approved annually by the New York State Department of Social Welfare and by its own National Office.

A Living Memorial will help to provide more funds for research, education, and service. Contact Chairman, Memorial Program, Ulster County Unit, American Cancer Society, 400 Broadway, Kingston.

Dear Abby . . .

Third and Fourth Fingers-Left Hand

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As a physician who also sits on the board of a very prominent home for unwed mothers, I would like to give you the benefit of my experience with "the pill."

Of the 11 girls most recently admitted to our home for unwed mothers, seven had been taking the pill, but probably thru improper use became pregnant anyway. Six of the seven girls had contracted a venereal disease. Two of the girls said they had bought the pills from classmates at a very high price. Two reputable doctors are present facing law suits for having prescribed the pills to minors without parental consent. All the girls were between 16 and 18 years of age, and from good, middle-class families

What I cannot understand is why the boys involved are not made to accept financial liability or punishment of any kind. In our local community, one boy, by his own admission was responsible for three separate pregnancies in one year. Why do the parents of the girls allow the guilty boys to go unpunished?

ANOTHER M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Because the parents of a girl who finds herself in such an unfortunate situation want only to protect their daughter from further hurt. And to bring legal action against the boy, in all likelihood would mean publicity.

DEAR ABBY: For years my brother was the city's most eligible bachelor and when he finally decided to marry, you should see what he picked! She's a quiet, frail, shapeless little woman (his age) and a widow with two children to boot! If you saw the beautiful, young, well-to-do women who were running after my brother, you would wonder how this little mouse of a thing ever won him.

Well, she is still wearing her first wedding ring. She told my brother that she and her first husband were married at a double ring ceremony and they promised each other they would never take their rings off. (He was buried wearing his.) So my brother like a fool said he didn't mind, and he will put HIS wedding ring on her finger right next to her first one. I have never heard of anything so ridiculous. Is this proper??

LOVES MY BROTHER

DEAR LOVES: If you really love your brother, you will not make an issue of it. It is rather unusual, but if your brother doesn't "mind," neither should you.

Four Men Sought In Dutchess Gas Station Holdup

Authorities throughout the Hudson Valley today were looking for four men wanted for questioning in connection with a Town of Poughkeepsie service station robbery early this morning.

Theodore Ruger, 34, of 24 South Clover Street, Poughkeepsie, told authorities he was in Dean's Service Station, Main Street, Arlington, at 3:25 a. m. today when a 1957 gray sedan with four men stopped for gasoline.

Town Police Captain Hugh Dakin, told The Freeman that Ruger reported to investigators that while his back was turned to the men, one of them hit him on the head with an object and knocked him unconscious.

The men escaped with more than $220 in cash, Captain Dakin said.

Teletype alarms were immediately sent out and roadblocks were set up throughout Dutchess County but no trace of the car or the men was reported at a late hour this morning. The men were described as well-dressed, in their late 20's or early 30's and Negroes, Captain Dakin said.

Ruger told police he would see his own physician for an examination to determine whether his head was injured.

F. Czaplicki. Robinson was released in bail of $50 pending a hearing on Monday, June 13 before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus. The arrest was made by a security officer at the store and state police from the Highland substation.

Study Findings That Would Avert Airlines Strike

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has received findings of a three-man panel that might help erase the threat of a July 5 strike by 34,000 workers against five major airlines.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the report of a fact-finding board headed by Sen Wayne Morse, D-Ore., was flown to the LBJ Ranch from Washington Sunday.

The board looked into issues underlying a dispute between the AFL-CIO Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and five carriers: Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United.

If the dispute is not settled by July 5, the union will be free to strike. One aim of the Morse panel, however, was to try to come up with findings that might contribute to a settlement.

Moyers said the text of the report would be made public in Washington early this week.

Johnson, who flew to his Texas ranch with his wife last Friday, was expected to return to the White House Tuesday. The principal purpose of their weekend trip was to see 22-year old daughter Lynda graduate with honors Saturday night from the University of Texas in Austin Lynda's actor friend, George Hamilton, also was on hand.

The President, who apparently has spent much of his time relaxing, made two announcements Sunday:

—Dr. Robert Alan Frosch, 38, will be nominated to replace Dr. Robert W. Morse as assistant secretary of the Navy for research and development Frosch, a physicist, now is deputy director of the Pentagon's Advanced Projects Research Agency.

—Dr Myron R. Blee, 49, will be nominated as deputy director of the Office of Emergency Planning, succeeding Franklin B. Dryden, resigned. Blee is an associate dean of Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton.

Dies of Injuries

SUFFERN, N. Y. (AP) — The death of an 8-year-old boy has brought to three the number of deaths in one family from an auto crash over the weekend.

Edward Hauser, of the Bronx, died Sunday in Good Samaritan Hospital here.

His father Julius Hauser, 47, and Hauser's mother-in-law, Mrs. Sadie Warshawksy, 73, were killed in the crash Saturday on the New York Thruway near Tuxedo.

Edward's sister, Mary, 5, was injured, but was released from the hospital.

The Hauser home is at 2265 University Ave., the Bronx.

Po'keepsie Firemen Hurt

While assisting at an apartment house fire on Saturday, two Poughkeepsie firemen were injured and treated at St. Francis' Hospital in that city. Fireman Sigmund Wirhowski was attended for smoke inhalation and Fireman Michael Sheftic was treated after being hit by a hose nozzle. The fire was in the apartment of Mrs. Leona Hedrick, on Delafield Street. Damage also was reported to two first floor apartments.

Maybe you don't want to drive a wild horse, or a man-eating tiger, or a killer fish...

maybe you want to drive a Pussycat.

These days, "hunting" for a new car isn't just an expression.

One name is more ferocious than the next.

But the Volkswagen Karmann Ghia is different. It's a Pussycat.

It has all the earmarks of a sports car, and all the trademarks of a Volkswagen.

Underneath that hand-shaped, hand-smoothed body you get an engine that averages 30 mpg and takes only 5 pints of oil.

And you get about 40,000 miles on a set of tires.

And you get an independent torsion bar suspension system, so when you're cruising at 80, a bump bumps only one wheel and not the whole car.

And you get a good feeling, knowing that if your Pussycat has a breakdown, a VW dealer will fix it with the same parts and the same speed and the same prices that a VW Sedan gets fixed with.

So if you're hunting for a sporty looking car, and run into a lot of ferocious names, with prices to match; looking like they might cost an arm and a leg to keep up . . .

maybe you're barking up the wrong tree.

Some bridge players are so lucky that if they fell in a river they would come up with fish in their mouths.

Most players would have bid two hearts with the North hand right over West's no-trump overcall. They would have been eminently correct since in this situation the bid of a new suit is not forcing and does not show anything except a good suit. With a lot of high cards you should simply double a no-trump overcall.

North's subsequent three-heart bid was terrible. If you can't bid two hearts you should not suddenly bid three. A really good player who wanted to act would have doubled three clubs and picked up 500 points or so. Most players would simply have passed.

South rescued to three spades without waiting for the double of the heart bid he knew would be coming. West doubled three spades and opened the king of hearts.

South won with the dummy's ace and discarded a small club. Then he led the ten of spades and let it ride to West's jack. West forced South by leading the queen of hearts.

South played the ace and eight of spades which West allowed to hold. Then South led his three of diamonds. West played the jack and South permitted himself a quiet smile. He was going to make the hand! It wasn't hard. He put up dummy's queen; led back the six and played his five of diamonds. Poor West had to take his ace and South wound up losing two spades, one diamond and one club.

During the 1938 football season, Penn State permitted only 10 completed passes against it.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

By Charles L. Culver, state Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, County Office Building, Kingston. Office hours: Monday through Friday 9 a. m .to 5 p. m.

Insurance—GI insurance policies for thousands of veterans lapse each year because of "riding the 31 day grace period." Too many veterans forget to mail in their premiums before the final deadline and eventually allow their policies to lapse, usually at a time when their dependents need the protection the most. Veterans are urged to rid themselves of the habit of riding the grace period and bring their premium payments up to date to avoid losing financial protection for their families.

Veterans are reminded to be sure to include their current mailing address and insurance policy number with all correspondence concerning their insurance. This will insure prompt and proper attention to their inquiries.

Correction — of a veteran's service record sometimes results in eligibility for veterans' benefits. Although the deadline for routine correction requests is passed, a veteran's service record may be changed when it serves the interest of justice to do so. Application must be made within three years after discovery of the alleged error or injustice.

Power of Attorney—Veterans or their widows may have their government checks sent to a bank for deposit to their account. They may assign a special power of attorney to a bank authorizing it to endorse their checks and place them in their account.

Free Fishing Lincenses — are available to honorably discharged veterans with service connected disabilities rated at 60 per cent or more. They must have been residents of NYS for at least three months immediately prior to the date of application.

Bell-Aero Employes Strike Over Pensions

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A union local representing 435 employes at the Bell Aerosystems Co. plant in Suburban Wheatfield and the nearby Bell Test Center struck the company early today in a dispute over pensions.

The strike by members of Local 205 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers, AFL-CIO, was ordered at a union meeting Sunday night.

They sought improved pension benefits in a current contract under a clause which permitted reopening of the pension issue. The "reopener" clause expired at midnight.

Two other union locals representing about 1,800 Bell workers agreed at the same time to continue working without a contract.

Officials of Local 501 and 516 of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO, said they would stay on the job on a day-to-day basis while negotiations continue. Their regular contract expired at midnight and a late company offer was turned down.

REAL DIVIDING LINE

For 20 years, we have accustomed ourselves to thinking of the world as being divided into East and West.

Two decades of Cold War of varying intensity have implanted this cliche in our minds: East and West, or more accurately, East vs. West—the Soviet Union vs. the United States—each with its allies, each perpetually on guard against the other, each championing irreconcilable ideologies, each possessing the power to destroy the other.

The usefulness of this simple picture of world reality may have come to an end. Time has undercut the balance that once existed between East and West. More and more we are being forced to think in terms of North and South.

By 1970—four and a half short years away—more than half the world's people will be living in the underdeveloped southern half of the globe, subsisting on a mere one-sixth of the world's total wealth. By 1975, the population under 15 years of age in the southern hemisphere will alone equal the total population of the developed countries of the northern.

This is the real division of mankind today—not between Western democracy and Eastern totalitarianism but between the stable, affluent nations of the North and the volatile, impoverished ones of the South.

The United States and Russia, whether they yet realize it or not, have been thrown together in this new hemispheric partition of the globe.

The course of history for the next century will be determined by how well they recognize that their common interests dictate co-operation in the common cause of the rescue of the hungering half of humanity, and by how soon they can resolve the rivalry of the past 20 years before it infects the emerging world of the South with envy, hatred and war that could engulf us all.

'TAPS' FOR WORLD WAR I

The sounding of "Taps," with its overtones of last farewells, is poignant enough under any circumstances. There was a special poignance in it when Hartley Benson Edwards, who was Gen. John J. Pershing's bugler, played the haunting notes one final time on the bugle that heralded the end of World War I.

Edwards, now 71 years old, sounded "Taps" in the Smithsonian Institution's Great Mall before turning the historic instrument over to the Institution for display. The incident recalled that other time—at 11 a. m. on Nov. 11, 1918—when he played the call in France to signalize the end of hostilities. The joy of that occasion was overshadowed by the sadness of remembering the many who had fought and died—a sadness still sharp in memory these three wars later.

HEALTHY FLEDGLING

If the airplane-in-every-garage revolution that was supposed to occur after World War II never got off the ground, it is making a heck of a roar on the runway. In the past decade or so, private flying has been enjoying a boom of impressive proportions.

"General Aviation" is the proper term for it, and it encompasses about 98 per cent of the 95,009 airplanes flying in the United States, with the rest military and air carriers. The 445,000 pilots who make up the ranks of General Aviation, ranging from Piper Cub students to pilots of corporation executive jets, rack up more than 17 million flying hours a year.

They are served by some 3,500 fixed base operators throughout the country, who in 1964 sold them 276 million gallons of gasoline valued at $110 million. By 1969, these totals are expected to rise to 380 million gallons a year worth $150 million.

Many communities are beginning to realize that flying is not a sport for the rich few and that small fields are something more than ripe candidates for housing developments.

In Michigan, for example, a survey conducted in 1962 found that General Aviation accounted for over 92 per cent of the total aircraft movements in the state, compared to 7 per cent for the airlines and less than 2 per cent for the military. GA aircraft carried 40 per cent of the total passengers, who spent $110 million within the state.

France's Maginot Line is going to be dismantled and sold for scrap — which is a belated admission that it wasn't very good in the scrap it was built for.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

TRI QUANG'S CRUEL RELIGION

When Buddhists started burning themselves to death in South Vietnam to protest the policies of President Diem, the western world was appalled. But now that they are staging a repeat performance of a rite that bears no congruity whatsoever to the teachings of the Buddha about the sacredness of human life, the shock value to the cause of that curious holy man, Tri Quang, is no longer what it was. Martyrdom and Madison Avenue techniques just don't mix.

Presumably the immolations in South Vietnam are voluntary. But, as the late Marguerite Higgins has pointed out, the evidence is that the bonzes of the Tri Quang sect seem to be able to turn the suicides on and off. In a remarkable interview with Tri Quang two years or so before her death, Miss Higgins was astounded to discover that the power-hungry monk was quite prepared to try blackmailing the Americans with a threat of more suicides. "Don't you think it will help our cause if some of us are killed?" he asked Miss Higgins. "It would be most unwise for President Kennedy to appear to be associated with Diem's actions," he continued. "There will be, for example, more self-immolations. Not just one or two, but ten, twenty, maybe fifty."

When Miss Higgins asked him about the ethics of letting human beings burn themselves for political purposes, Tri Quang shrugged it off and said, "In a revolution many things must be done."

This is the Leninist justification for the Bolshevist killings in Soviet Russia: "You can't make an omelette without breaking eggs."

Last March I hired a guide to take me to the ruins of Chichen Itza in Yucatan. After a morning of climbing pyramids the guide led our small party to a deep natural well in the middle of the Yucatan jungle. This was the well that was devoted to the rain god. In a season when the rains failed to come, the Mayan priests would pick a young maiden from a good family, dope her into insensibility, and throw her into the well. The guide explained that it was considered an honor among Mayas to have a daughter selected for the sacrifice. To be marked for the sacred duty of allowing one's self to be drowned, a girl had to have sufficient character and presence of mind to talk to the rain god without bashfulness. And she had to be both pretty and personable, for the rain god might be affronted with ugliness.

Now, in Mayan terms, the sacrifice to the rain god could be called "voluntary." The Mayas believed in it; the fathers and mothers accepted it without flinching. And the daughters, while nobody may know their secret feelings, took it as a tribal duty.

For the life of me, I can't see any difference between the Mayan sacrifice to the rain god and the Buddhist immolations for the cause of their gruesome politicalized religion. Both types of sacrifice are examples of a barbaric mind. And when Tri Quang says that President Johnson was to blame for the self-immolation of a 55-year-old nun in Hue simply because the Americans were refusing to take sides in the Buddhist argument with General Ky, he is taking us back eight hundred years in time, to the period when human sacrifice was considered quite in order in the more benighted areas of the world.

The Tri Quang Buddhists are irresponsible and indubitably mad. They are unfit to practice democracy. What is one to make of a so-called religion that is cruel enough to send children out into the streets to dare the guns of the police? What is one to make of the "holy men" who trapped forty American newspapermen in a pagoda in Da Nang and tried to hold them as hostages against attack? What is one to make of "monks" who would prop a wailing baby against the body of a dead woman just for the benefit of a passing photographer?

In much of Asia Buddhism is a religion of contemplation. The true Buddhist would hesitate to harm a fly. But these Tri Quang Buddhists are a profanation of their religion. With their fake children's crusades, their provoked "suicides," and their endless plays to the god of the American newsreels, they have proved their incapacity to govern with any sense of human decency. The American "liberals" can have 'em; I'll take General Ky.

THE WELL CHILD

Patience Goes a Long Way In Building Self-Confidence

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some children are more susceptible to teasing than others just as some are more inclined than others to be bullies. If your child is unduly upset by teasing this would suggest that he feels insecure. Building up his self-confidence can't be accomplished overnight but with patience much can be done.

Often a child who has been teased becomes upset because he senses that you are disturbed over the situation. Your first step then must be to make sure that you view his problem casually. You must avoid rushing to his defense or scolding his tormentors but rather instruct him how to deal with bullies by himself.

If he is being teased by his own siblings you may want to deal with them later in private but even this often backfires and must be done with wisdom and tact.

The quickest way to resolve the problem is to find a nursery school where your child can be with others his own age and learn the lessons of give and take that he will need throughout his life.

Q—Since a fever is the body's way of fighting an infection, why doesn't the disease disappear when the fever leaves? Should a child be allowed to run a low grade fever (101 or 102) without the aid of aspirin or alcohol rubs?

WHEN the fever leaves the body there may still be millions of body cells that have been damaged by the infection. It take time to replace these and reduce inflammation.

Efforts are made to reduce a high fever to make the sick child more comfortable, prevent dehydration, conserve his strength and prevent convulsions. If the temperature is not over 102 there is no need to worry about it but a close check on it should be kept becaus it may shoot up very quickly.

The best way to combat a high fever is to sponge the child with lukewarm water or rubbing alcohol. Most doctors advise against the use of aspirin to reduce the fever in a child because sometimes it is not readily eliminated and poisonous concentrations build up in the child's blood.

Q—Whenever my 5-year-old son gets a cold he gets a sore throat. The doctor says it's tonsillitis. Is this serious? How can I tell whether it is the start of rheumatic fever?

A—If along with a sore throat there is a fever and the tonsils are swollen and inflamed your son has tonsillitis. This usually subsides within a few days with good nursing care—bed rest, small doses of aspirin and plenty of fluids. The diagnosis of rheumatic fever is based on symptoms and laboratory tests and is best left to your doctor.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Washington News

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Caught inevitably in the multiplying complexities of this age, Washington today is still a place where attitudes are quickly polarized and issues reduced to oversimplified stereotypes.

Twenty years ago, when we were just moving into the thicket of postwar problems, this was a bit more understandable. In those days, to be against Henry Wallace in the controversy over his appointment as secretary of commerce was to be labeled an enemy of full employment. Henry had written a book promising 60 million jobs.

There seems much less excuse today. Congress, government and other agencies pour out voluminous reports detailing every facet of our problems. Hundreds more newsmen are on hand to scan and record every significant variation on a major theme.

Yet, for all the torrent of words, little comes through but the main threads of the music.

A SENATE COMMITTEE, looking into automobile safety, hammers so emphatically on the evident shortcomings of today's cars that the country must surely conclude that drivers are almost totally blameless in the making of fatal accidents.

A motorist familiar with these hearings might confidently shout "Detroit brutality!" as he runs a red light and slams into another car.

One would hardly know that so much college-level safety reseach is under way that the National Safety Council maintains a "correlation service" to keep track of it; that much of it is directed to the make-up and performance of the driver, and that many completed studies deal harshly with him.

In the present state of the issue, to call up such evidence is to "come to the defense of Detroit," if not to appear just a little inhuman and undemocratic.

In the light of the real complexities of the safety problem, which embraces not only the car and the driver but the engineering and condition of the road, the too-often irresponsible placing and labeling of road signs, and other factors, what Washington has produced is badly misleading to the general public.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE:

In this seat of the world's most powerful government, the huge press corps is admirably disposed to be vigilant against government - inspired false information, excessive secrecy, a smothering of opposition viewpoints.

Nevertheless, the posture of aggressive skepticism can be overdone. In this town it often is.

Shocking dispatches from Da Nang in South Viet Nam, reporting the incredible brutality and cynicism of rebel Buddhists, must go down hard with those who keep arguing that the American leadership always manages, in Saigon and elsewhere, to sbide with the worst edements when it acts to help troubled peoples.

THE NATION i. not well-served by attitudes of enduring, almost "structural" hostility toward this or any U.S. government. President Johnson makes his quota of mistakes. But, obviously, errors do not consume his waking days around the calendar.

Nor should a healthy skepticism toward a powerful White House lead alert probers to blind acceptance of fellow critics from the ranks of prominent figures. The President's adversaries frequently tumble into major error.

There are numerous observers in this capital who believe that one opponent, Foreign Relations Chairman J. William Fulbright, has amassed a huge personal tally of errors of fact and judgment in his touted "scholarly" inquiries this year into Viet Nam and China.

Yet Fulbright has largely borne a charmed life. To record his errors would suggest, in this town, "softness toward Johnson."

Washington does find middle ground, for many new laws are rooted in compromise. But too many of its big arguments have a black-and-white look and the ugly sound of "there's only one truth."

Discovers Rays of Sunshine In Clouded War-Like World

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Rays of sunshine have begun to appear in a clouded world of war or near-war. Diplomacy has raised hopes that the process of reason may yet prevail in resolving the conflicts of mankind. Here are some of the encouraging developments:

1. The United States government has intimated its willingness to enter into an agreement with Communist China pledging that neither country will initiate the use of nuclear weapons and that the Peiping government will join the other nations in banning nuclear tests everywhere except underground.

Readiness to Halt

2. The State Department has publicly reiterated a readiness to consider stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam if the government at Hanoi is willing to take some "reciprocal action." This, it is officially explained, doesn't mean that the United States merely wants a temporary halt of infiltration into South Viet Nam, but is asking for a withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops. Presumably the United States would agree to withdraw American forces, as this is what "reciprocal action" really could mean when the necessary guarantees are given by both sides.

3. Premier Ky of South Viet Nam has declared that, after ten new members are named to the ruling directorate, he is prepared to resign and submit to an election. It is a formal step, but the objective now is to create an atmosphere of compromise between the anti-communist factions which have been quarreling among themselves. These groups, however, have a common purpose — namely, to set up an independent government.

4. The holding of free elections in the Dominican Republic, accomplished just 13 months after American intervention, has given new hope to Latin America that domestic disturbances can be adjusted successfully by international effort — in this instance, through "The Organization of American States."

5. A major east-west conference on European security, in which both the United States and Russia would participate, has been proposed by Denmark as a means of achieving the main purpose of the North Atlantic Treaty organization — to establish a strong foundation for peace in Europe.

Inasmuch as the NATO Ministerial Council is meeting in Brussels this weekend, an opportunity will arise for discussion of a new East-West formula. This is expected to clarify the fuzzy situation that has resulted from General De Gaulle's announcement of France's withdrawal from NATO.

Turn for Better

But even as the drive for unity inside Europe is being pressed, a significant turn for the better is also developing in Asia. For four years the United States has been trying to get Red China to make a pledge against a first use of nuclear weapons. The Peiping government in the last few days has indicated its readiness to sign a treaty agreeing not to strike first with nuclear weapons. The Department of State has called attention to a letter written by Secretary Rusk to the Secretary-General of the U.N. in 1962, declaring that the United States would not use any weapon with "aggressive intent", but must reserve the right to act in "individual and collective self-defense." The question now is being discussed with the Red Chinese Ambassador to Poland. It may take a year or more to complete negotiations.

These various developments in the world are salutary, even though there is naturally much uncertainty as to just how the negotiations will turn out. The important fact is that little by little reason is beginning to prevail.

World opinion can strongly influence the result. Meanwhile, patience is essential. The Dominican problem, for instance, has been an exasperating one, but today it is on the road to solution. The developments in Viet Nam are by no means conclusive, but the emphasis now is on free elections.

There is undoubtedly at work in the world a strong movement toward peace and the settlement of disputes by the process of reason rather than by military force. The United Nations has a remarkable opportunity today to derive from the encouraging developments of the last few days an inspiration to set up conferences and negotiations that could lead to peaceful settlements of the many current disputes which, through local in character, have threatened to bring on a major war.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

My brother John is two years, two months and two heads younger. We are opposites. When he was little, grandpa called him "Puddinhead." He took matters in slow stride. He hadn't changed. Me, I was born running. I even snore faster than he does.

Last night we were talking about vacations. He said that he and Anna are going to spend a week touring their grandchildren. Then back to work as a special cop for Al Marino at the Diplomat. I told him that I would have no vacation. In fact, I said I had not had one in eleven years.

My brother nearly fell down laughing. "You're on vacation all the time," he said. "Your office is in your house. You keep no regular hours. You can knock off anytime for golf or a trip to sea in your boat. Where the heck is the work? Writing?"

Yes, I said, writing. "What the heck is that?" he said quietly. "You sit down and think of something to write and you write it. Right?" I agreed. I recalled the evening my mother heard that I had completed a book called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." My father and I were playing pinochle.

She said: "If this book doesn't sell, son, do you think you'll look for a job?" No man, or course, is a hero in his own home. When the story was published and became Book-of-the-Month and a t. v. spectacular, my wife said: "I'll level with you. I gave it a fat forty pages and nothing happened so I quit."

Johnny spoke for all when he said: "A guy can write, so he writes. If he can paint, he paints. But you can't call it work." I began to give him a High Noon glance. "I'm not knocking it. It's just the idea that anybody can make a buck out of it that gets me."

There is a big calendar on the office wall. He reached up and took it down. "Look at this," he said. "A couple of weeks ago you and Kelly flew to New York, went to Pearl River, then back to New York in a big beautiful hotel, then down to Philadelphia, and back home. You don't call that a vacation?"

I told him he missed a stop. We went to Holy Name Hospital in Teaneck, where we saw Ginny's seventh baby, Amy Marie Frechette. Sister Canise permits only fathers to the infant section, but she made an exception and we saw the round pink face behind glass, the slowly curling fingers, the wisps of dark hair, and the slow wink.

"Boy," he said. "That's what I call work. I see mine once a year." I pointed out that he sees his kin for a whole week; I see my pets for an hour. He studied the calendar. "What's this Switzerland mean?" I said that we planed to visit Geneva and Zermatt in September.

"Ha!" he said. "That's what I call drudgery." He saw the word Wash. "That's tomorrow," I said. "I plan to research a book in Washington. He shook his head in mock sorrow. "You sit in a big hotel and interview people all day." No, I said. In the White House. He said he didn't know how I could stand it.

"First," I said, "I have to find a story. Then I get a publisher. After that, the research begins. I always try to get two and a half times the material I plan to use and . . ."

"Stop," he said. "I cry easily. What's this Stockholm marked for?" Perhaps in September, I said. Also the Greek Islands in a private yacht. Johnny started to slide off the chair. "A private yacht? Who's donating that?" I said it was being arranged with Olympic Airways. "You're kidding," he said.

No, I wasn't. "Okay," he said. "Save me a drag on that cigarette." Carefully, my brother hung the calendar on the wall. "How many times have you been to Europe?" he asked. I said I didn't know — maybe eight. "And once you flew all the way around the world," he said. I nodded.

He shook his head, "All of it is work." All of it, I said. There are deadlines for columns; deadlines for magazine articles; deadlines for books. They pop up in long even rows, like headstones. Each one has the same legend: "Send it in on time. Make sure it's your best."

John stood up and stretched. The time was 9 p. m. "What are you going to do now?" he said. I told him I planned to write a magazine article about a murder between now and 2 a. m. I asked what he was going to do.

"Me," he said. "I'm going to kick off my shoes and have a glass of beer and watch Bonanza. I'll probably fall asleep.

A tough life.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

With four teen-age sons in the family, there was a constant laundry problem with oily, soiled, hard-to-wash pillow slips. I finally solved it by making pillow slips from inexpensive bath towels which I bought on sale!

Since the ends of the towels are already finished, there is no hemming necessary. All mothers have to do is sew up the two sides and one end.

Beach towels (when bought on sale) make lovely pillow slips for teen-agers. Since there is so much material in the towels, sometimes three slips can be made from one towel by using the selvage as the hem on each slip.

Believe me, Heloise, this certainly has saved the ticking on my pillows.

But the best part about it is that they don't have to be ironed at all.

During the spring and summer we go on picnics almost every weekend.

I save junior-size baby food jars, and when I pack our picnic lunch, I put a couple tablespoons of dry baby cereal into one of the jars.

When I need the cereal, I just add the milk and some fruit, and baby is ready to eat from a disposable "bowl."

Dear Heloise:

Since my mother doesn't want me to use her glasses to mix my tempra paints in, I simply use a paper cup.

I cut off some of the top of the cup and use the bottom part to mix and make the color of paint I want.

Later I just throw away the used paper cup and have no mess to wash.

Mothers will like this.

Dear Heloise:

Here is a very helpful hint for children (and adults, too) who attend summer camp for a month or so.

Before packing, find three or four boxes about the same height as the rim of the trunk or footlocker you are planning to use.

There should be one fairly square box for Bermudas and slacks (or dungarees), and another for shirts, sweaters, and blouses. A fairly skinny one is fine for socks and underpants.

Arrange these boxes in the bottom of the trunk, put in the garments and label the top of each box.

Your packing job will be much easier.

Last year was my fourth year at a camp, and this system really improved my neatness.

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever have a jar of expensive face cream, etc., spoil during the summer months? Well . . . I did!

Now I keep all face and hand creams on the bottom shelf in the refrigerator, and don't lose a bit.

Patting chilled cold cream on my face on a hot day is very refreshing.

True.

Either use a dry rag with a dab of cornstarch . . . or dampen a rag slightly, dip into the starch, and then polish.

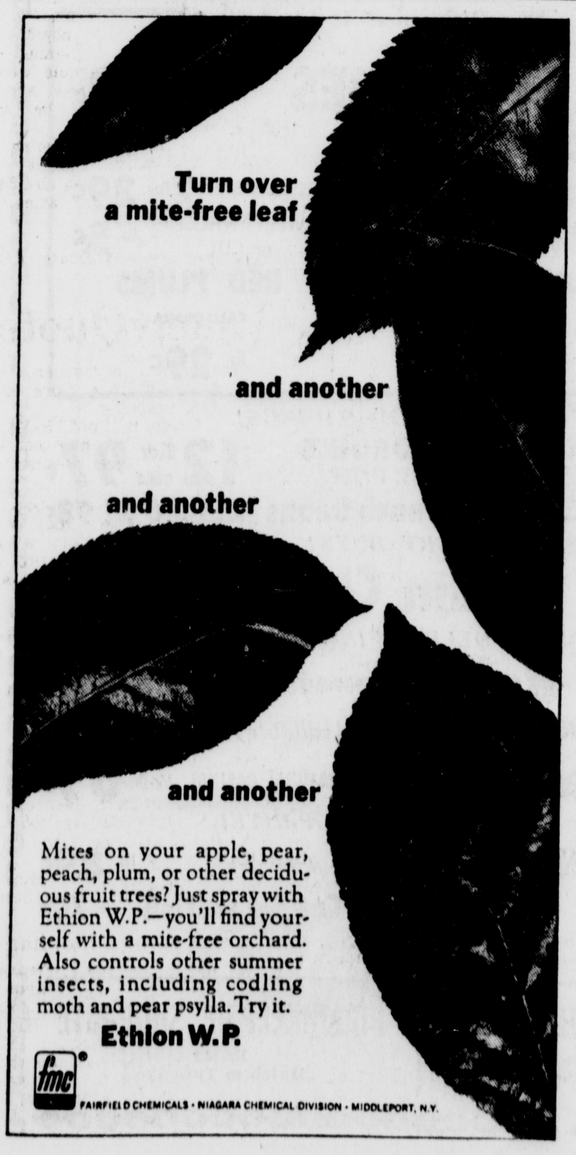

A clean dry rag will buff it beautifully.

4 Construction Unions End Their Disputes

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Four unions in the commercial construction industry had ended their contract disputes while three other unions still remained on strike today.

All seven walked out Wednesday after their contracts had expired and after negotiations dealing mostly with wage increases had failed.

The unions which have not reached agreement are Locals 17, 17A and 17B of the Operating Engineers (AFL-CIO); Local 449 of the Independent Teamsters Union, which represents ready-mix concrete and dump-truck drivers, and Roofers Local 74 (AFL-CIO). They bargain for a total of 930 members.

The drivers and roofers planned to resume talks today.

The four unions that had ended their disputes were the Painters District Council 4; Local 8, Tile, Marble and Terrazo Helpers, (AFL-CIO); Plumbers Local 36 AFL-CIO), and Lathers Local 32 (AFL-CIO). All four have about 1,200 members.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON Ap Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Why does one news item seem to send the stock market plunging or skyrocketing? Why does a similar item on some other day leave the market unmoved and bored?

Perhaps more important to many a would-be stock market insider, how come that so often Wall Street seems to have reacted to a news item before most people are even aware of it?

Reaction Is Predictable

Stock brokers will tell you that public reaction to national or to corporate reports often is predictable enough, but in recent weeks has just as often seemed whimsical.

As to seeming to be in the know first, sometimes stock traders may have had a preview because of news leaks.

This year the public has seemed more than usually sensitive to news reports. Brokers say the mood of investors switched quickly from apathy to jitters. For weeks investors had shrugged off basic developments in the economy. Then they reacted instantly to one after another news break.

Investor Is Sensitive

An official of the Securities and Exchange Commission has noted that today's investor is so sensitive to corporate news that often even a seemingly innocuous statement by management can result in a tremendous overreaction in the price of the company's stock.

Often a major change in stock prices causes a chain reaction by setting off stop orders. That is, investors have told brokers to buy if an issue rises to a certain level or to sell if it drops to a predetermined level.

Market Goes Quiet

Stock traders also jump in to take profits by selling when they are jittery, just as they were prone to take chances by buying when they were cocky.

Then — suddenly — the market goes quiet again. Traders are back where they were before — uncertain. They aren't sure about what the Viet Nam war may hold for business; about the chances of more inflation; about the revival of tax increase talk; about what the balance of payments might do to the government's policy towards business; about the future trend of profit margins.

But they will talk about it — and spread rumors — and suddenly jump back into the market as bulls or as bears.

Prepares for Second Cancer Transplant

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Larry Rink prepared today for his second cancer transplant operation, with hope it might prolong his life, threatened by a type of bone cancer.

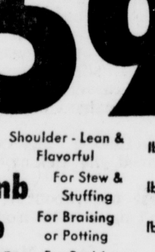

Rink, 22, of Centreville, Mich., was the only survivor of a series of transplant experiments in April, which also involved three other men.

He and his wife, Jean, expecting their first child in September, came to Roswell Park Memorial Institute here Sunday.

The hospital said he would undergo three days of tests before trading portions of diseased cancer tissue with another, unidentified cancer patient.

Worth Knowing

Dr. W. Schweisheimer, MD., said that people are more absent-minded and prone to accidents when the barometer drops. Worker efficiency goes down with the barometer and dispositions tend to go sour. He says many folks wake up on such a day despising everything, causing absenteeism and accidents to increase. Apparently its the kind of day that occasioned that famous remark, "I should've stood in bed." Well, regardless of the weather we strive to make you happy, with LOW PRICES, wonderful service and concern for your welfare.

Cover Wide Area

had to come from the local communities involved.

He revealed that although Dutches and Columbia Counties had taken advantage of federal 3-1 grants to develop pollution control programs, neither Ulster or Greene had done so.

Ulster Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson's statement was read by his administrative assistant, John Marquardt as follows:

"Far more will be accomplished on the question of air pollution at the local and state level, rather than at the Federal level." Following this morning's hearing in Kingston Assemblyman Wilson said that the meeting which had been called by the Democratic Congressman was just another example of attempted "Federal intervention" in our area, and charged that the hearings were apparently designed to detract from a State hearing on the same problem which has been scheduled for June 28 by the Air Pollution contral Board.

On Duty in Albany

In his statement Assemblyman Wilson, who could not be present at today's hearing because of his legislative duties in Albany, cited the massive efforts being made by New York State on the entire problem of air polution, and pointed to the six point legislative program which has been introduced this year to attack the problem on both the local and the State level.

Wilson said the program is designed to expand the powers of the State's Air Pollution Control Board, to strengthen the present air pollution control laws, to require the anti-pollution devices to be installed on all motor vehicles manufactured after 1968, to allow tax exemptions for the installation of air pollution control facilities, to grant 100 per cent state aid to local communities for surveys on means to eliminate air pollution, and to develop methods of expanding inter-state activities on air pollution.

The Ulster County Assemblyman also said in his statement that, "air pollution, or to be more positive, air conservation, is everyone's concern . . . and not just the responsibility of government." Mr. Wilson added, "it (air pollution) is something which must be shared by individual citizens, business and industry, and there has to be a large measure of voluntary cooperation by all segments of our society." Returning to the question of federal intervention, Assemblyman Wilson said that, "If our local problems cannot be met within our own area, or at least in Albany, then, and only then, would I advise that the solving of those problems be considered a matter of federal concern."

Urges Attendance

In his statement at today's hearing, Assemblyman Wilson hoped that some information might be derived from the meeting, but that he felt that far more would be accomplished at the state level, and urged that everyone in the area who is concerned with the problems of air pollution to attend the State's public hearing on June 28. Wilson said that the meeting would be to discuss air pollution matters in Columbia, Dutchess, reene and Ulster Counties, and would begin at 2 p. m. at the Dutchess County Community College, Poughkeepsie.

The following statement in part was submitted by Donald C. Hunter, senior engineer, State Health Department, on behalf of Alexander Rihm Jr., executive secretary of the Air Pollution Control Board.

"On behalf of the state's air pollution control program, I would like to thank you, Congressman Resnick, for this opportunity to increase public understanding of what we are trying to do. For many years we have led the nation in practicing the principle that only the concentrated attention of the public on the facts about our polluted air will result in the kind of action that must be taken by government, industry and the community as a whole. We are encouraged by your interest and welcome you and the thousands of others who support the cause of clean air.

Notes Limit

"The time limit you have placed on our testimony will make it possible for us to develop only a general picture of the problem of air pollution in the Hudson Valley and what the team of state and local agencies are doing about it.

"As interpreted by the Air Pollution Control Board, the Clean Air Act of 1957 clearly established the basic rule for managing our air resorces; the first order of business for the state is to work with the local agencies to strengthen control programs where the problem actually exists.

"Air Pollution control in the Hudson Valley or New York City or Buffalo cannot be controlled efficiently from Albany. It can best be controlled by strong working arrangement with the agencies on the firing line. This is a difficult fact to live with. It is easier to be shortsighted. Thus, many of the problems of the Hudson Valley have received prolonged attention because, quite frankly, we consider a long range, effective solution to a problem more important than a patch work of temporary control measures.

"We recognize that there are problems that must be taken care of in the valley, some which have persisted for many years. Our industrial pollution unit has been successful in abating a number of existing sources on a voluntary basis and has required approved controls for new sorces. But the first priority is to establish strong local programs to deal with them. This principle is clearly recognized also in the Federal Clean Air Act. The primary objective of the state is to provide local agencies with matching funds, technical assistance and enforcement backup. Our secondary objective is to do the job only if it cannot be done any other way.

Cites Program

"As the first step in establishing an air pollution control program for the Hudson Valley, the state initiated cooperative surveys with the health agencies responsible for clean air in Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Rockland and Ulster counties. It must be made clear that the purpose of these surveys was not to find out if problems existed — only a blind man can ignore them, not only in the Hudson Valley but in any part of this state or any other state in the union.

"The surveys were initiated for the purpose of establishing the degree of control that would be necessary to restore the atmosphere to a satisfactory quality. The surveys were but the first step in setting specific quality objectives or goals toward which our control measures could be aimed. But more important, the surveys provided us with an opportunity to work with the local agencies in the development of their own programs.

"This line of action was difficult to take in part because our own educational efforts have increased public awareness. This in turn, has resulted in increased attention to the air contamination problems of the valley and on occasion resulted in pressures for faster action placed upon us and the local agencies. To relieve these pressures, the state could have set up a hasty control program independent of the local agencies.

"Some of the annoying problems of the area have been eliminated. But then the people of the valley and the state would have been saddled with a temporary, overcentralized program. The value of our policy of moving slowly but surely towards a permanent and locally oriented program is verified by the fruits we are about to harvest.

Policy Paid Off

"The state's policy of building local resources has paid off. During the survey, local agencies—whose primary source of finances and technical assistance has been the state program — have been responsible for fewer burning dumps, less noxious fumes and dust from industrial plants, and the abatement of other sources. Laboratory facilities have been created monitoring networks set-up and local personnel trained. A permanent basis for rules and regulations was established. Hearings have been scheduled by the Board for June 28 and 29 in New City and Poughkeepsie on a system to zone the use of the air resources in the five-county area as proposed in the survey report.

"The air-use zoning system, and the rules to back it, will mean appreciably cleaner air in an area which is already relatively clean and free of pollution."

mobile, Division, together with Vietnamese and South Korean units, ended Operation Crazy Horse after almost 21 days of off-and-on fighting against the Communists in the rugged central highlands 270 miles northeast of Saigon. The reported enemy toll was 516 Viet Cong killed, 31 captured, 119 suspects detained and 15 crew-sized and 88 individual weapons captured. Over-all allied losses were light but there were heavier casualties in the early stages, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. Team Ambushed

—A Communist ambush wiped out a six-man U.S. Air Force survey team in a truck about 15 miles south of the 17th Parallel frontier with North Viet Nam. There was no trace of the attackers, who staged the ambush in an area where political turmoil has diverted Vietnamese troops from action against the Communists.

—Vietnamese troops destroyed a Viet Cong jungle ammunition factory in the Mekong Delta's Phong Dinh Province after four skirmishes with the guerrillas in Cai Rang district 80 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said 10 Viet Cong were killed.

The Buddhist Institute's initial negative reaction to the reported civilian nominees to the junta underlined that the political crisis which began in mid-March was far from over.

Thich (Venerable) Huyen Quang, the institute's secretary general, declared: "The government has not approached our leaders about joining the directorate. Even if the government wants to invite us, we will ignore it."

Fire Damages Shed

Fire completely damaged a one-story shed in the rear of the Governor Clinton Market, 777 Broadway, shortly before 5 p. m. Saturday.

Firemen from Engine 2 used a pump stream to extinguish the blaze. The shed, which was owned by John DeGasperis of 19 Boulevard, was used to store rubbish and cardboard cartons. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Jobless List Rises

WASHINGTON (AP — Unemployment last month took its biggest jump in a year, the Labor Department reported today, and a spokesman said it indicated a slowdown in the rate of the nation's economic growth.

But, as Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said, "There is every reason to believe that the overall (economic) movement is still upward," despite the rise in May from 3.7 to 4 per cent in the jobless rate.

The total number of unemployed rose 140,000 to 2.9 million.

Ross said the biggest part of the increase was among high school and college students putting in bids for summer jobs, although they were still in school in May and not ready to work until June.

"It doesn't prove that they are not going to get work," Ross said.

Surveyor I

riod of high moon, the surface temperature where Surveyor is was expected to go as high as 260 degrees fahrenheit. The camera would not be turned on in this period because, according to one scientist, it might "blow up or melt."

Resume June 14

After the period of high noon, the experiments will resume through the morning of June 14, when the lunar day — two weeks in earth time — ends.

After that, the scientists said, Surveyor's usefulness will end. The craft's delicate instruments would be destroyed in the lunar night's temperature of 260 degrees below zero. The night, like the lunar day, is two weeks long.

High Court Rules

must go back to the U.S. District court in Ohio and that court must order Sheppard released from custody "unless the state puts him to its charges again within a reasonable time."

Justice Hugo L. Black noted a dissent.

Black did not state his views. The vote was 8-1.

The former Cleveland Osteopath, convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in the 1954 slaying, claimed in his appeal to the high court that prejudicial news media publicity tainted the trial judge and jury.

In reply, Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Sheppard was convicted in a fair trial.

The case was of special significance because two constitutional rights were at issue, freedom of the press and fair trial.

Sheppard, who all along maintained he was innocent, served more than nine years in prison before U.S. Dist. Judge Carl Weinman ordered his release in 1964 on grounds he had not received a fair trial.

Last May, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati set aside Weinman's ruling.

The Circuit Court ordered Sheppard's return to prison, but in July granted a stay to permit him to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

West Camp Man Earns Promotion With U. S. Navy

A former West Camp resident, Bard S. Coons has received his appointment as warrant officer in the United States Navy.

Former electricians mate chief petty officer, Coons is a member of the precommissioning crew of the fast attack nuclear submarine Guardfish. He has been ordered to Naval Officers Candidates School Newport, R. I. for six week instruction period and subsequently will report for duty abord the aircraft carrier USS Essex, homeported in Quonset Point, R. I.

The Navy's warrant officer program provides a path of advancement to officer rank for highly skilled, carefully selected enlisted men with demonstrated potential for greater responsibility.

Enlisted in 1955

Warrant Officer Coons' enlisted service spans nearly 11 years. Enlisting in the Navy in September, 1955, Coons served on the submarine tender USS Orion prior to attending submarine school. He qualified on the convential submarine USS Blenney, earning the right to wear the submariner's coveted silver dolphins.

In May 1958, Coons was selected for training with the navy's nuclear power program, then in its infancy. Upon graduation from the Basic Nuclear Power School at New London, Conn., he participated in the initial testing and operation of the land based nuclear power plant prototype at Windsor, Conn.

He was then ordered to the pre-commissioning crew of the USS Tullibee, one of the Navy's first advanced nuclear powered submarines. In November, 1964, Coons reported to the precommissioning crew of the Guardfish under construction at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J.

Warrant Officer Coons is married to the former Betty Jane Dargan of Kiskatom and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coons of West Camp. He is a graduate of Saugerties High School. The coons' have two children and presently reside at Woodbury, N. J.

Gym Show a Wow At Local School

Always an annual success, the physical education exhibition of Woodstock Elementary School took place Thursday evening.

Parents and friends filled the cafetorium, cleared of tables — which were replaced with tumbling mats, heavy ropes strung from the ceiling, parallel bars and trampolines—for the event. Apparatus work and tumbling made up the main portion of the night's program, but there was time for fun and jokes.

Students in the gym classes, instructed by Andrew Shekitka, performed athletic feats of all types; showed what had been accomplished in physical education classes during the past year. Seventh grader Chris Snyder, who will be leaving the Woodstock School this year for the Boiceville School in the fall — and who has, more or less, been the star for the past three years at these annual events, showed exceptional coordination and skill in his farewell performance.

Balancing, tumbling, jumping, climbing, local youngsters put on an agile and entertaining performance.

Air Medal Won By Col. Coletti

Earlier this week, this column profiled the fantastically successful business career of Richard L. Coletti. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Coletti, of West Shokan, he has acquired both fame and wealth as the inventor of a color process which has revolutionized the advertising industry.

Hardly had the print dried on the article than we learned from the older Coletti, long-time mixologist at the Woodstock Country Club and father of Mrs. Allen Dean Elwyn, of Woodstock, that yet another son has gleaned honors in another field.

Col. Victor P. Coletti, a career officer, has been decorated for distinguished airmanship while refueling Viet Nam-bound combat aircraft in flight.

Col. Coletti was awarded the Air Medal recently for his significant and indispensable role during operational missions over the Pacific Ocean.

The colonel is a KC-135 Strato Tanker maintenance control officer and, in the performance of his duties, flies from a forward combat base to refuel Strategic Air Command B-52 Strato Fortress bombers and Pacific Air Forces fighter aircraft.

The son of the local couple was commissioned through the aviation cadet program and has 22 years of military service behind him.

A graduate of Theodore Roosevelt High School, Bronx, he attended the University of Oklahoma and George Washington University during his off-duty hours. He is married to the former Betty Jackson, of Muleshoe, Texas.

Guston Exhibits In Utica Gallery

Woodstock artist Philip Guston, recognized internationally as a giant of the modern art world, will be featured in an exhibition of Visiting Artists at Munson-Williams-Proctor Institute, Utica.

The exhibition is one of three celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Institute's School of Art; opens Sunday afternoon and continues on view through July 24. Other exhibitions running concurrently in different sections of the Galleries will include the Annual Exhibition of Adult Students' Work (including paintings, drawings, sculpture, ceramics and metal art created during the year), and an exhibit of Artist-Instructors Work, with paintings, sculpture, ceramic and metal arts.

Philip Guston's work was selected from the Institute Collection of paintings, sculpture and prints. He is being honored as one of the 35 artists who have visited the School of Art in the past 24 years. Among other artists exhibiting with him will be: Peppino Mangravite, William Zorach, David Smith, Dong Kingman, Paul Parker, William Thon and Antonio Frasconi.

The Woodstock artist is also profiled in a commemorative brochure reviewing the School of Art from 1941, which will be distributed to all patrons.

Coletti Process Hailed by Trade

The speedy processing of color transparencies of the astronauts in manned space shots, blastoff and other newsmakers these days is the result of a highly sensitive technique developed by Richard Coletti of Baldwin, Long Island.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Coletti of West Shokan. The elder Coletti is the maitre d' at the Woodstock Country Club.

Coletti, founder and president of the Cole Color Corp. of Baldwin, has had a meteoric career in photography and color processing field. His present work is the culmination of many year's research and development.

With time a matter of extreme urgency in the space shots, the Cole Color company produces nearly 100 color separation positive sets within 48 hours and distribution to newspapers and other news media is made while the space flight is still making news.

The technical ramifications in producing this work is enormous and the Cole Color process is given high critical acclaim in the May issue of American Lithographer magazine, a trade journal.

Among some of the nationally known industries and business corporations who are regular clients of the Cole Color process are: United States Steel, Revlon, J. P. Stevens, IBM, Clairol, Lever Brothers, Union Carbide, A.T. & T., Nabisco and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

USCO Stars on TV

Publicity seems to be something Woodstock's USCO group of artists never lack these days. Recently their work made a Life Magazine cover and was reviewed in the larger metropolitan daily newspapers. Now, their engineered art has been featured on television.

Nationally known reporter Joseph Michaels took viewers on a tour of the current exhibition staged by the group in New York City's Riverside Museum last Friday night. The show was seen over NBC's Sixth Hour News and the visual trek through USCO's four-room "be-in" show took up a lengthy segment of the program. All the blinking psychic messages and built-in speakers blaring taped collages of sound and music were there. A small boy wandered through the light-up paintings and spinning sculptures (one marked Love; another titled Peace) as high-register, taped noises accompanied their turning.

Said Michaels, in happy comment, "The show is strong on message and technology and the exhibit, as a whole, was fun . . . I enjoyed being at it."

The show's producers evidently enjoyed it, too. Shots of the tour were used again at the conclusion of the news hour for background during sign-off.

Guild Student Applies Silver and Gems to Decanter

Guild Offers Jewelry Class By Eva Chavez for First Time

Few men and women have ever been able to resist the lure of expensive metal and the gems which sometimes adorn it. For these, and others, the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen is offering a jewelry class in silver and semi-precious stones as part of its new and extended educational program in the crafts for the summer of 1966.

Instructing the jewelry course, utilizing both these materials, will be Eva Chavez, who handles her own jewelry work with the flair of a sculptress. Mrs. Chavez is one of ten Woodstock artists who will make up the faculty at the Guild when classes begin July 5 for two months.

Educated in New England and the Midwest, she has gleaned insight into the jewelry making trade during her travels throughout Europe and Mexico; ranks among the finest young jewelers in the eastern United States today.

She honed her skill by studying silver work under the renowned Robin Fry at the Putney School in Vermont. Later, she took further courses in the art at Antioch College in Ohio.

She has been doing silver work commercially for the past decade and her work has been exhibited and sold in the sunny state of Florida and in both the Atelier and Old Forge Gallery in Woodstock. Her jewelry is owned by many business and professional women, among them several theatrical personalities.

The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen has persuaded her to offer a class in jewelry at its historic old building here for the first time in this summer of 1966.

Although she prefers working with silver and semi-precious stones of all hues, Eva Chavez has also excelled in fashioning gold in beautifully intricate designs for necklaces, brooches, rings and pins.

She is also a published poetess and author and her course promises to be one of the most popular of those being offered at the Guild this season.

Garden Clubbers Prepare for Show; Laud Teenagers

The Woodstock Garden Club held its regular monthly meeting in St. Gregory's Parish Hall, Wednesday morning as a workshop to make niches for the July flower show. After the luncheon hour, Mrs. Brainard West, president, called the meeting to order and reported that, with the help of officers of the Youth Recreation Center, the ground at the base of the war memorial on the Village Green had been prepared and planted the week before Memorial Day.

Mrs. West and Miss Evraets, in charge of the planting, wish to thank the young people for giving after-school time to help, and for their interest in this annual beautification program. Courtesy and a sense of responsibility made them most pleasant to work with, and the Garden Club wishes them every success in their recreation building project. Those who participated in the planting were: Chris Gehman, president; Bob Mulligan, vice president; Karen Steinlauf, secretary and Barbara Steinlauf, treasurer. The American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary made a donation to help pay for the plants.

Members voted to conduct the club's usual civic improvement contest, with Mrs. Mona Schwab acting as chairman.

The Garden Club will again plant the window boxes at the Library. The planting last year met with such public favor that the Library requested it be done again, and made a donation toward purchasing the flowers. Mrs. Arthur Jones was appointed chairman of this committee.

The theme of the season's activities is "America the Beautiful" in keeping with Mrs. Johnson's national program, and to follow this idea, members were given litterbug posters of the National Council of State Garden Clubs. These will be placed at strategic points throughout the area.

'Day Apart' Combines Picnic and Program

Women of Woodstock's Overlook Methodist Church will hold a "Day Apart" this coming Tuesday, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Richard [illegible], Speare Road. In the event of rain, the program will be held at the church on Tinker Street.

Babysitting will be provided at the church hall during the time of the program, rain or shine. Those attending are asked to bring a lunch and drink, a lawn chair or blanket to sit on, and a lunch for all children to be left with the sitters at the hall.

Those desiring information on transportation or other matters may call Barbara Hancock, Barbara Marcato or Norma Drake.

Distant Galaxy

Most distant object visible to the unaided eye is a hazy wisp in the constellation Andromeda. This was once thought to be a nebula or luminous cloud of gas, but now is known to be a galaxy like the Milky Way. This galaxy is so distant that its light, traveling 186,000 miles a second, takes about two million years to reach us. It has a diameter of 100,000 light years.

Second Tax Payment Will Be Due June 15

The Internal Revenue Service said today that the mailing of notices for the second installment of the 1966 estimated tax is almost complete.

Donald T. Hartley, District Director of Internal Revenue for the Albany District which services Northeastern New York State, said that individual taxpayers who filed declarations of estimated Federal income tax must pay the second installment of tax due on the 1966 estimate by Wednesday, June 15.

Hartley said that the mailing of the June 15 notices to taxpayers who filed declarations began last week. Most of the remaining notices will be in the hands of the Post Office by June 15. In some cases, Hartley said, where the taxpayer has made an error in his declaration, Form 1040ES, such as an incorrect or omitted social security number, there may be a delay of a few days before he receives his notice.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

More than a hundred investors have asked this column about the common stocks of the copper companies. The situation there is very fluid and the risks involved are high.

The warld copper market is incongruous. In January, 1965, copper sold for 41 cents a pound on the London Metal Exchange. Early in April, 1966, it sold there at an all-time high — 98 cents a pound.

The demand for copper far exceeds the supply at the present time. The Viet Nam war and huge industrial requirements are primarily responsible. Artificial control of copper prices has been used by our government. Uncle Sam has arranged for shipment from Chile of 100,000 tons of the metal at 36 cents a pound, promising that South American country substantial financial aid.

Thus, the taxpayers of the United States are underwriting foreign subsidies. At the same time, the Chilean government announced in recent weeks that it is advancing its copper export price to 62 cents a pound—up 20 cents a pound.

Strikes at the copper mines in Chile and in Africa have further complicated the tight situation. The same forces that are operating in the United States demanding higher wages and better working conditions are also developing in the world copper mines.

The United States Government has a huge copper stockpile and during May, June, July, and September, 1966, thousands of tons will be delivered in the attempt to keep prices down.

The U. S. Government stockpile objective is 775,000 tons and unquestionably, the release of thousands of these tons would tend to hold down prices.

While world consumption of copper is immense, still the productive potential of the metal is enormous. Africa, Chile, the United States and Canada have vast copper properties. And high prices have encouraged additional production. In the United States, new mines will produce more than 114,000 tons and Canadian mines about 40,000 during 1966.

The leading copper equities listed on the New York Stock Exchange are booming in price. And for faint-hearted investors, they are dangerous vehicles of finance.

With such a fluid situation, where no one can accurately tell when supplies will catch up with demand, I think the exciting copper equities like Anaconda and Kennecott are for those daring speculators who can look risk in the face and smile.

They are too uncertain for me, for instance.

Always, when an international commodity gets into short supply and prices increase, marginal properties start operation and within a short time the supply and demand quotient becomes balanced.

Today, it is better, in my opinion, to buy a good silver or gold equity than a copper stock.

It is probable that in the future both silver and gold will come into great demand and such equities will boom in price as the copper stocks have.

THE FORUM

(Q)—(from a dozen investors) "Are you buying the copper stocks?"

(A)—No. They are too risky for me.

Poll Results on Johnson Show Much Disenchantment

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson tried to play it cool while critics of the Viet Nam war raised the temperature and now opinion polls indicate a dwindling confidence in the way he handles his job.

There are other reasons for what seems to be a growing disenchantment.

Poll Disturbing

But the poll results must be disturbing to a man who likes to feel he has broad public support for his actions before he acts. Consensus, he calls it. He had it in 1965, a calmer time than this.

In that first year after his election Congress, overwhelmingly controlled by his Democrats, listened to him dutifully and responded with the most productive legislature year in history.

He isn't having the same sleighride now. In the meantime two things above all happened:

The United States got up to its neck in Viet Nam, where factional chaos sometimes makes American help look ludicrous, and the criticism of American involvement and Johnson's leadership took on big dimensions.

Had Choice

Johnson had a choice.

He could have tackled his critics head on—say with a detailed explanation to the nation on television—or let his top aides do the answering.

He chose the second course which has been much less than fully effective.

His own explanations have been in bits and pieces in speeches and news conferences, sandwiched in among other things, and his aides, trying to state the administration's case to Congress, got banged and interrupted by critics.

Perhaps Johnson hoped as weeks and months passed the war would take such a happy turn that the critics, and the doubts and discontent set ablaze by them, would be rendered meaningless. Instead the war got worse.

May Be Mistake

This failure of Johnson to handle his critics directly may turn out to be one of his greatest mistakes. Yet Johnson, like other conscientious, hard-working men, is extremely sensitive to criticism.

But Congress is also sensitive —about the voters—in an election year like this when all the House seats and one-third of those in the Senate are at stake.

This explains in part why Johnson can't work the same magic with Congress in 1966 that he did in 1965. His requests are no longer being steam-rollered through and Congress is dumping advice on him from all directions.

His magic isn't the same elsewhere, either. Labor, which backed him in 1964's elections, sounds increasingly dissatisfied with his attempt to limit wage increases to 3.2 per cent a year.

Meany Critical

Just a couple of weeks ago AFL-CIO President George Meany, more and more critical of Johnson's administration, announced: "I don't buy the idea that labor needs the Democratic party."

Negroes are pushing for more and more action, although Johnson while as a senator and president has done more to push through civil rights legislation than any man in this century.

Inflation, or the danger of it, is a problem. The United States has its hands full trying to reorganize the North Atlantic Treaty alliance. Johnson is under pressure to be nicer to Red China, which just hisses.

The best break Johnson has had so far in 1966 is that critical trouble has not broke out elsewhere around the world while the United States is bogged down in Viet Nam.

Colgate Trustee

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Stewart A. Dunn of Short Hills, N.J., a vice president and director of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., is a new trustee of Colgate University.

Dunn was named to the board Sunday to succeed G. Dewey Hynes of Montclair, N.J.

Army Paratrooper Killed in Viet Nam

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — An Army paratrooper, whose father is chairman of the biology department at Skidmore College, was killed in combat in Viet Nam the day after he turned 19.

Dr. and Mrs. Denton W. Crocker said they learned Sunday that their son, Pfc. Denton W. Crocker Jr., died Saturday while in action with the 101st Airborne Division.

They said their son was an honor student at Saratoga High School and had accelerated his high school program so that he could enlist in March, 1965.

His parents added that he had volunteered for duty in Viet Nam and was sent to that Southeast Asian nation about nine months ago.

He had been wounded once before in combat near the Cambodian border.

Lions Will Host SEEC Picnic at Hasbrouck Park

The regular meeting of SEEC was held at the YMCA Tuesday evening, May 31. At the opening of the meeting new members were introduced and welcomed, and each gave a brief resume of their many activities in other fields.

The picnic chairman, Max Oppenheimer announced a picnic will be held for all members of SEEC, at Hasbrouck Park, Saturday, July 9 at 3 p. m. hosted by the Kingston Lions Club.

The president, Doris Hamma announced the committees to serve for the year as follows: Transportation, Alice Allen; Program, Dorothy Slater and Larry Giustino; Projects, Marjorie Janson, Margaret Swart; Historian, Joyce Anderson; Fun and games, Robert Hogan and Mattie Johnson; Refreshments, Peggy Gruberg; Sunshine, Pearl Weber; Chaplain, Cora Hogan; Sergeant-at-Arms, Edward Leonard. The Constitution and By-Laws Committee members are Karl Pitcock, LeRoy Van Bramer, Donald Snell, and Robert Richmond.

A report was given by Karl Pitcock, and the Constitution and By-Laws were read. A motion was made that the members consider the contents and recommend any changes or additions before thew are accepted and passed.

Mattie Ann Johnson gave a brief but interesting talk on her life of blindness and rehabilitation. After the business of the meeting, refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

There is a wonderful spirit among the members and SEEC invites all who are interested in working and helping to join with them. The next meeting will be held June 28 at 8 p. m. at the YMCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

German Legislator Arrives Here; Tours Much of Area

A prominent West German educator, legislator and confidant of Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt arrived in this country at Kennedy airport Friday night and came immediately to Saugerties. During an unofficial, two weeks visit of this country, he is making his headquarters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Hermann, Simmons Drive, Barclay Heights.

Since arriving Friday night, Dr. Carl Roesch, a cousin of Mrs. Hermann and a delegate in the West German Federal Parliament from 1961 to 1965, has toured much of the area.

Dr. Roesch, who campaigned with Willy Brandt when the mayor of Berlin was running for the chancellorship against Ludwig Erhard, was escorted by Mrs. Hermann to places of interest in and around Saugerties. Saturday morning, he and his entourage paid a visit to the Anderson dairy farm near Accord. The group later toured the Minnewaska Trail and the famed mountain house there and visited the Bolognese winery at Highland. His interest in seeing these sights stemmed from the fact that, while active in the Federal Republic of West Germany, he served on the Committee for Food, Agriculture and Forest. Saturday's activities ended with Dr. Roesch as the dinne guest at Germania Hall, Poughkeepsie.

Was Dinner Guest

Sunday activitie for Dr. Roesch, who has been cited for his outstanding achievements in assisting in the release of many German war prisoners held behind the Iron Curtain, began with attendance of Church services at Atonement Lutheran Church in Saugerties. He was also a guest Sunday at a dinner at Kingston Maennerchor Hall, Greenkill Avenue, and at a reception for Alexander Aldrich, Republican candidate for Congress from the 28th District, sponsored by Saugerties Republicans and held at Arrowfield, home of Fabian L. Russell, Saugerties.

Today, the Nurnberg native plans an extensive industrial tour locally. He will visit IBM in Kingston and Cantine Paper Mill and F. L. Russell Corporation in Saugerties. He is also expected to meet with Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today in his Kingston office.

Tuesday, his itinerary calls for a morning tour of Saugerties Central Schools with Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, and visits to Rhinebeck, Hyde Park and West Point. Later in the week, he will go to Albany, New York City, Boston, Washington D. C. and Baltimore.

Schedule Hearing On Street Lights

In the briefest of sessions Friday night, the Saugerties Town Board set a date for a public hearing on street lights for the Windemere Lighting District.

Such lights have been sought for some time by residents of Windemere Highlands, who ask that a completely new lighting district be created and new street lights installed.

The Board set Friday, June 17, at 8 p. m. as the date of a public hearing on the matter and voted to advertise the date through legal notices.

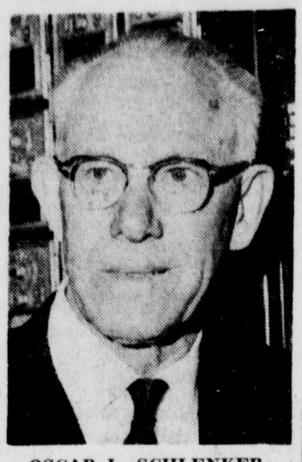

Two area traffic signs, which seem to make little sense to local residents, were discussed by the Board. Their attention had been called to a sign on Route 32, approached by drivers going from Saugerties into Glasco, and located at Fuller's Corners. Approaching the four corners, drivers face a sign designating the speed limit at 30 miles per hour. Yet, just beyond this point, a full stop sign warns automobile operators. Although the two signs have been so placed for many years, there are those who feel the order makes little or no sense.

Another traffic sign which came in for criticism is one placed to catch drivers' attention as they drive down Main Street in Glasco. At the top of the hill going down toward the river, the sign proclaims the end of a 30 mile speed limit. Many drivers feel the speed limit should not be changed on a hill.

The board voted to write both the New York State Department of Public Works, Division of Traffic Control, and the Ulster County Highways Department in an attempt to have the situation remedied at both points.

In a final piece of business, just as the Village Board had done late last month, the Town Board agreed to a name change of Vidi Comm, Inc., to Vide Com of Saugerties, Inc. for telephone purposes.

West Camp Postmaster Will Retire After Lengthy Career

OSCAR L. SCHLENKER

When a man has stamped as many letters, weighed as many packages, figured up as much postage and counted as many Christmas cards as Oscar L. Schlenker, his retirement from the postal service can only mean that a face familiar to many local residents will be missed.

Mr. Schlenker, who was born a little more than halfway through the Gay Nineties—and missed being a Fourth of July baby by one day—has a wealth of memories about the days before mail whizzed across country by jet plane. As a boy, he watched postmen on horseback delivering the mail over rural, rutted roads—never suspecting that one day he would be speeding the mail along its way via truck and plane.

Although he cannot be expected to remember his birthday, July 5, 1896, he remembers well the many days, weeks and months spent as postmaster at West Camp. He has seen his post office, which is in the Community Market on Route 9W, grow from a fourth class to a third class office.

Actually, his association with the market has meant as much to him personally as his affiliation with the post office. He had worked with the Knaust family, who formerly owned the market, for some years before he and his late wife purchased the business in the 1940s. He continued to own, operate and manage the grocery until last December, when he finally sold the store with a view to retirement.

He began combining his duties at the popular and well-patronized market with duties as a postmaster when he was appointed acting postmaster in late 1943 during President Franklin D. Roosevelt's term of office. Mr. Schlenker also remembers clearly receiving notification of his new position as postmaster on October 6, 1944 from the then Postmaster General of the United States, Frank C. Walker. At that time, the West Camp post office was listed as fourth class Some years later, during President Harry S. Truman's term in Washington, West Camp was elevated to a third class post office.

Mr. Schlenker feels his retirement should make few ripples and is hardly newsworthy. The many local residents who have followed his dedication to his job over the years or who have paused for a friendly chat almost every morning for more than twenty years, feel otherwise.

Quiet and soft-spoken, the retiring postmaster has been extremely active in community affairs. In his youth he loved nothing better than baseball; played the game all over the Hudson Valley. Later, he was a driver for Malden-West Camp Fire Company and is a former trustee of that organization. He holds membership in the Ulster County Postmasters Association and is an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp, and a former councilman of that church. He is also proud of his membership in the Odd Fellows.

A widower (his wife died in 1954) he has a large family which keeps him far from lonely. The father of three children, he is grandfather to nine, several of whom are married.

For another two months, he will continue to carry on the multiple tasks required of him as postmaster, but on July 30, he will retire officially on the last day of what is known as the post office year. His retirement will come within a few weeks after observing his 70th birthday.

His plans after that are "just to be retired" and "take it easy for awhile" — an occupation many would have to agree he has earned. Yet when he adds that he has "plenty of odd jobs to do on the side" — this probably means that retirement for him will be as busy as life always has been and still is today. And a visit to the West Camp post office proves just how busy life can be if the visitor pauses long enough to observe Oscar L. Schlenker and his two clerks, daughter-in-law Mrs. Verna Schlenker and Walter Krien, speedily sorting mail and sending it off to the four corners of the world.

Schools Sponsor Summer Program

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold announced today that a summer program under the provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Title I, will be sponsored by Saugerties Central Schools for children in elementary grades of the District in both public and private schools from July 1 through July 29. The program will be under the supervision of Miss May Evans, Director of Pupil Personnel Services.

The Elementary and Secondary Education Act provides Federal funds to local school districts on a limited basis to provide programs to improve the educational opportunities of children educationally or economically deprived.

purpose of the program in Saugerties will be to give children an opportunity to improve reading skills as well as broaden their background in art, music, science, and improve their physical fitness.

Funds available to Saugerties will make it possible to have a teacher for a reading program in each of the four elementary schools and one teacher to rotate between buildings for each of the following: art, music, physical education and science.

Thirty students will be in the program in each building. Each day the program will consist of instruction in reading and the language arts for one and one-half hours and the other one and one-half hours will be devoted to one of the other subjects. The total program will provide 30 hours of instruction in improvement of reading and seven and one-half hours of instruction in each of the other four areas — art, music, physical education and science.

Basis of selection for children to participate in the program will be test scores on a standardized reading test. Teachers and principals in both public and private schools will cooperate in this. A notice will be sent to each parent whose child is invited. An agreement and consent slip to send the child for the full 20 days of the program will need to be signed and returned to the principal of the child's school within the time noted on the letter so that other children can have an opportunity to attend if it is not possible for someone to accept the invitation.

Further details will be released at a later date.

Fifth Graders Tour F. L. Russell Plant

Mrs. Miller's fifth grade class at Main Street School toured the F. L. Russell Corporation plant at Mt. Marion on May 25. They were greeted by Robert Russell and guided through the plant by Mr. Cline and Mr. Groepler.

This was a follow-up to a science unit on machines—simple machines, combining simple machines to make complex machines, and how mankind has been affected by machines.

Parents who chaperoned the group were Mrs. Gade, Mr. Myer, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Steele.

Members of the class included: Angus Barkhuff, William Brinier, Jonathan Farrell, Clifford Ferrono, Jerel Gade, Kevin Gilmore, Thomas Kelly, Bertham Legg, Terry Maddlone, Alan Myer, Robert Russell, Daniel Sperl, Frank Szlachetka, Mark Tobiassen, Carlton Whitaker, William Whitley, Edward Zito, Robin Evans, Nancy Ford, Anna Cambino, Jodi Green, Margaret Kiernan, Patricia Kimble, Helga Lenz, Arlene Mann, Donna Martino, Karen Sjursen, Karen Snyder, Inez Steele and Melisa Vedder.

325 Are on Guild List Planning to Leave Voluntarily

NEW YORK (AP) — The Newspaper Guild of New York has submitted to the World Journal Tribune Inc. the names of 325 Guild members who say they wish to leave their jobs voluntarily.

The 325 were among the 1,800 Guild members who were employed on the three newspapers whose merger created the new corporation.

The corporation and the Guild hope that the voluntary terminations will help smooth the way for settlement of the Guild's six-week-old strike against the World Journal Tribune, which has not yet been able to publish any of the three papers it plans.

The corporation had planned to hire slightly more than 900 of the 1,800 employes in the Guild's jurisdiction. They include editorial, business office and maintenance workers.

The list of 325 was submitted Sunday as representatives of the Guild and the World Journal Tribune Inc. resumed contract negotiations, which continue today.

Those resigning have been offered full severance pay and other benefits.

The terminations will make it unnecessary for the Guild to seek jobs for some persons who were dropped by the new corporation out of order of seniority. Those who had been offered jobs by the new corporation but decided to resign will save the jobs of some who were to be dismissed.

Selection of staffs for the new papers on the basis of seniority was a key demand of the Guild when it struck April 24, the eve of the scheduled start of publication.

Members of the nine craft unions in the industry have refused to cross Guild picket lines.

When the strike started, none of the nine craft unions had a contract with the new corporation. Since then, six craft unions have reached contract agreements with the corporation.

The merged newspapers were the morning Herald Tribune and the afternoon Journal-American and the World-Telegram & Sun. The new corporation plans to publish the Herald Tribune on weekday mornings, the World Journal on weekday afternoons and the World Journal Tribune on Sundays.

Reagan, Opponent Wind Up Campaig For Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Actor Ronald Reagan and his opponent, George Christopher, speed across California today, appealing to the uncommitted as they wind up their campaigns for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

At stake was the job of leading the Republican party — a minority in the nation's most populous state — back to the control of the state Capitol. Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and a Democratic legislature have run the state since 1959.

Brown, facing primary opposition from Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty in his try for a third term, called it "one of the most important elections this state has ever held."

Scientist Church Names New Head

Erwin D. Canham became the new president of the Christian Science Church today, as members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

These were the climatic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the church's history, flowing over into the adjacent civic auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Social Agencies Discuss Service

A special meeting of all the members of the Ulster County Council of Social Agencies will take place today 7:30 p. m. in the supervisors rooms of the county building, Fair and Main Streets, as announced by Louis H. Schafer, president.

This meeting is for the purpose of discussing ways and means to organize a Home Makers Service. This is a vital service much needed in Kingston and Ulster County. Besides council members, all county supervisors have been invited.

Mrs. Elizabth Overbaugh, chairman has also invited Bernard T. Kramer to act as a resource man. Local or county residents that desire information concerning this service, may contact the president, Louis Schafer, at 204 West Chestnut Street.

15 Take Exams For Promotions In City Posts

The Municipal Civil Service Commission said today that 15 candidates took examinations Saturday for promotions in the Fire Department and one for the position of building inspector.

Mrs. Lillian Salapatis, CSC secretary, said that two firemen took the test for promotion to the rank of captain and 13 took the test for promotion to lieutenant in the fire department, while one candidate took the examination for appointment to the post of city building inspector.

Mrs. Salapatis said that results of the open competetive examinations would probably be known in about six or eight weeks. While no vacancies exist at present for the positions, the tests will provide an eligibility list for promotion or appointment to the positions as they occur.

All candidates who had filed previously for the tests took the exams with the exception of those who filed for the exam for promotion to fire department lieutenant. Seventeen had previously filed for that test.

The exams were given at Kingston High School.

Developers . . .

by auditors from the State Equalization Board, the mayor said that their subsequent report on the appraisals, when completed with other statistics, will determine the city's equalization rate.

"To my surprise," Garraghan said, "they (the auditors) found many properties in Kingston under-assessed, especially in Central Broadway and the Albany Avenue areas. Walter Donaruma, who represents the city in our discussions with state officials, will meet with them before July 1."

He emphasized in his message to the UR Agency that, "You must find out the availability of developers for both Broadway East and Uptown, immediately."

He said that "The critical situation in the 'money market' can lead our city into bankruptcy if we do not study every block of real estate in the area."

The Mayor's Letter

Garraghan's letter to Reis in its entirety:

"Dear Frank:

"It is very important, at this time that you consider the availability of developers for Broadway East and Uptown Projects.

"The 'Money Market' and construction costs have reached a critical stage in our country's history.

"The financial status of Kingston is at stake, and I do not want taxpayers two years from now to say, 'How did it happen?'

I know of a few people interested in construction of various buildings in Broadway East.

"There is a great demand for property in the Uptown area and your committee should request the Uptown Economic Committee to study the area and report to you by June 20th, 1966.

"From my desk in City Hall, I see many millions in new assessments available to us if we act fast. The delay in making a decision is in itself a mistake, so let's get the show on the road."

Small Nations

group of five countries representing NATO. This would avoid the French getting the Germans into direct negotiations that could affect vital interests of other allies.

Although divided on these two key questions, the 14 ministers are united on several others relating to the future of the 17-year-old alliance.

A series of seven detailed organizational reports prepared for the foreign ministers includes these recommendations:

—SHAPE, or Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe, the home of NATO's military command, should move from near Versailles to near Waterloo, outside the Belgian capital.

—Alongside it should be NATO's military committee, now based in Washington, which should take over some of SHAPE's planning and coordinating functions. With an international secretariat at its disposal, the military committee would be charged with fulfilling the decisions and directives of the NATO political chiefs.

—Allied Forces, Central Europe, which is also under De Gaulle's orders to quit its headquarters at Fontainebleau, should shift to Aachen, in West Germany near the Belgian frontier.

Red China

Chou against President Liu. The newspaper, Mainichi, speculates that Ten once was close to President Liu but later shifted to Premier Chou and got Lin Piao to begin the crackdown on dissident intellectuals.

In the earlier stages of the purge, the charge of treason against Mao's teachings, revisionism and antiparty activities were pinned on a number of men who worked under Peng Chen. They included Teng To, former editor of the Peking People's Daily, Vice Mayor Wu Han, writer Liao Mo-sha, Peking University President Lu Ping and his assistant Peng Pei-yun.

The new party committee for Peking announced today that it had fired Fan Chin, chief editor of two Peking newspapers, dissolved their editorial committees and named a few editorial committee to run the papers. A monthly magazine which Teng To edited was suspended for reorganization.

All New Voters In Dutchess Will Be Investigated

All new and first voters in Dutches County are required to be investigated by police with the Permanent Personal Registration now in effect, according to Election Commissioner Robert Stevens.

Voting records indicate there are about 3,500 new and first voters in Dutchess County each year.

"Previously," Stevens said, "no police checks were required for new and first voters, but under PPR it is required by law." These voters in Poughkeepsie and Beacon will be checked by local city police, while in the county the check will be made by aides of the office of Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan.

The investigating policemen, who are required to fill out an investigation form, have to determine whether the person who registered lives at the claimed residence and is qualified to vote. The policeman must sign the form and give his name, rank and badge number.

New or first voters are those reaching the minimum voting age of 21 for the first time; those who have never met residence requirements to vote before, and those who previously voted in another county.

Gemini 9 Duo

skillful command of Gemini 9 and for his cool thinking under great pressure.

Stafford, 35, balding, slow-talking Air Force lieutenant colonel, made the decision Saturday to postpone the space walk 24 hours because he and Cernan were "bushed" after the lengthy pursuit of the target satellite — the third complicated rendezvous they had executed successfully in 20 hours.

Then, as Cernan was preparing to shove out of an equipment section with the back pack, Stafford assessed the fogged visor and communications problems and told a ground station in Hawaii:

"It's about four or five times more work than what we anticipated. And the pilot's visor is completely fogged over. Communications are very poor. He sounds like a loud gargle.

"If the situation doesn't improve — it's no go on the AMU (astronaut maneuvering unit)."

Minutes later, Stafford reported:

"It is fogged over completely. It's no go for the AMU. The AMU transmitter is garbled. I can barely read it. I want him to switch back to the spacecraft electrical umbilical line."

Mission control center in Houston, Tex., quickly agreed with the decision.

Cernan rested for a few minutes on his perch in the open equipment section at the rear of the spacecraft, then said the visor was clearing up a bit.

When he could see well enough, Cernan returned to the cabin area of Gemini 9. Stafford asked him, before entering, to retrieve a rearview mirror attached to the nose because sunlight was reflecting from it into his eyes.

As Cernan removed the mirror his visor clouded up again. Minutes later he was back in the cabin and the hatch was closed.

Before the trouble, the slender 32-year-old Navy lieutenant commander had been a carefree, free-talking space somersaulter.

When he first opened the hatch and stood up on his seat, he remarked: "Boy, it is beautiful out there, Tom."

Protected in a 32-pound, 30-layer space suit, Cernan shoved out into the weightless new world and drifted a bit clumsily at first on the end of his 25-foot lifeline.

For nearly an hour he cavorted on the tether, learning how future astronauts might effectively operate in space.

As a 36-minute darkness period moved in and dropped the temperature quickly 340 degrees to 150 degrees below zero, Cernan moved into the equipment bay to hook up with the back pack. Then the trouble began.

Experts on the ground were not certain what caused the fogging or the bad communications.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, said that Cernan's heart rate rose to 160 during his walk, compared to a normal 70, indicating a lot of work.

15 to 20 Injured In Train Derailme

TEMPLETON, Iowa (AP) — Between 15 and 20 persons were injured today when the Union Pacific's City of Los Angeles passenger train derailed near here in Western Iowa.

The injured were taken to the Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Losses of some key stocks were sharp, depressing the averages, but declines of most of these issues represented in market indicators ranged from fractions to a point or so.

Wide declines were posted for some of the glamor stocks which were such big gainers earlier this year. The drops were particularly sharp among the color televisions, office equipments and aerospace stocks.

On the surface, the background to the market seemed more encouraging than otherwise, but the tight money situation was still plaguing Wall Street, analysts said, and reports of increasing competition in the office copying field and of lower prices for color TV sets brought some weakness.

The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks at noon declined 1.2 to 319.1 with industrials off 2.6, rails off .6 and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 6.07 at 881.79.

A slide of 3½ by Kennecott and losses of well over a point by Du Pont and Westinghouse Electric helped drag down the averages.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Adds Physician To Paltz Staff

DR. CARLOS HENRIQUEZ

Medical Associates of New Paltz has announced the addition to its staff of Dr. Carlos Henriquez III, who will join the medical group in July.

Doctor Henriquez is a former resident of New York City and Yonkers. He attended Trinity Preparatory School and Columbia College, where he was active in intercollegiate sports and from which he was graduated magna cum laude. Dr. Henriquez attended Columbia Medical School and is now completing a two year general practice training program at Huntington Medical Center at Flemington, N. J. During his busy years of training, Dr. Henriquez has continued his interest in art and music.

Dr. and Mrs. Henriquez have two young children.

The arrival of Dr. Henriquez will make a total of six physicians with Medical Associates. Dr. Philip M. Paris joined the medical group in May. Because of the growth of the practice, further expansion of the New Paltz Medical Center is in the planning stage. Medical Associates of New Paltz provide routine and emergency medical care to southern Ulster County.

Calls for Action

viding for the payment of medical bills for those persons deemed unable to afford medical care.

Brynes commented under questioning by Rep. Barber B. Conable, Alexander, N.Y., Republican, during a radio and television interview that was broadcast Sunday in Western New York.

Adequate Program

Brynes said that New York had to expand what was already "a generally adequate program" to obtain 50 per cent federal aid under federal law.

That expansion, he said, has made it "very questionable as to whether they're still within the area of medically indigent or people who are medically in need."

Critics of the plan have charged that the eligibility requirements are too liberal, that the plan will impose new tax burdens on many localities and that it will lead families to cancel private medical insurance policies.

The state has set an income level of $6,000 after taxes for a family of four, allowing for insurance and some other deductions.

The Wisconsin representative suggested federal action to be taken to specify income eligibility and to limit the amount of federal aid.

He and Conable agreed that it was not the intent of Congress that families in higher income categories be covered by the plan.

Learn Risks Involved Before Buying Stocks

Q) "I would like your advice about investing $2.000 in stocks as an inflation hedge. My husband will retire in five years with pension and Social Security. Our children are married, home paid for, $2,000 in E bonds, sufficient insurance and $5,000 in savings. We are very fortunate don't you think? Please suggest good stocks for us to buy." M.G.

A) I do indeed think you are fortunate and I am very pleased to see you so well situated. You are definitely in a strong position to start a stock program, but before doing so, I would like to tell you a little about the stock market. No untrained investor — including yourself — should embark on a stock program without thoroughly understanding the hazards involved.

All stocks fluctuate, sometimes very widely. We have recently seen a broad decline involving most stocks — which may not yet be ended. You should never buy hoping for quick profits, to offset inflation. If you purchase with a five to ten year goal, there are very excellent chances that your long-term gains in earnings, dividends and price will exceed the devaluation of the dollar.

With that clearly understood, I recommend steadily growing Corn Products and Texaco.

Q) "What is your feeling about convertible bonds? Can you recommend two such issues?" J.D.

A) I think very highly of convertible bonds as a hedge against decline in an uncertain market. Convertibles with a reasonable yield are protected against heavy downside movement by their fixed interest return. If the premium paid for the conversion privilege is not excessive, they offer an opportunity for sharp upside action if and when the market strengthens.

I recommend Olin Mathieson's conv. 5 ½s of 1982, selling at 119 with a conversion value of 108. The current return is 4.6 per cent. Also Williams Brothers conv. 5 ½s of 1988 selling at 108, with a conversion value of 93. The current yield here is 5.1 per cent.

New York Tax

mutually acceptable legislation.

Travia said the Democratic-ruled Assembly would not accept the Republican measures but would counter by passing its own bills.

The New York City deadlock turns on the insistence of Brydges and other Senate Republicans that the city should raise much of the $420 million in revenue it needs by increasing subway and bus fares and by boosting real-estate taxes.

Travia said he was standing by his vow that there would be no increase in transit fares or property taxes. Democrats contend these moves would hit hardest at those least able to pay.

Lindsay's based his program on a proposal to levy an income tax — at 50 per cent of the state rate — on both city residents and commuters who work in the city.

The Modified Plan

Travia modified the plan by cutting the rate to 25 per cent and proposing a liberal system of credits for commuters. The result, he said, would be to exempt commuter families earning less than $15,000 a year.

Brydges maintained in the Senate last week that it would be folly for the state to allow cities to levy an income tax, because the state should reserve this tax for its own needs.

Another high-ranking Republican senator, Edward J. Speno of suburban Nassau County, said he would fight to his "last breath" against any income tax on commuters.

Duryea, who represents suburban Suffolk County, thus caused a stir in GOP ranks when he said he would accept an income tax "that does not levy a charge unduly on commuters." He did not indicate what rate he would consider "fair."

Lindsay said in another TV interview that any compromise should not drop the rate for commuters below half of that for city residents. He said Travia's plan would spread the ration to 10-1.

Travia has been saying for several days that he would be willing to adjust his proposal in the interest of compromise.

The reapportionment dispute appears to be a replay of GOP-Democratic inability earlier in the session to agree on a plan for redistricting the Legislature.

Both bills are designed to lay down guide - lines for county boards so that they can reapportion in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" edict.

Democratic Bill

The Democratic bill would restrict counties to single-representative districts. Populous towns thus would have to be cut into several districts.

The GOP plan would permit multi - representative districts, permitting county boards to retain the town-unit system if they chose. Democrats say this system has proved too favorable to the GOP in the past.

Another area of dispute is that the Republican bill would permit counties to use registered voters, in lieu of population, as the basis for redistricting. Democrats argue this tends to discriminate against minority groups because they usually do not register in as high a proportion as other voters.

The dispute over Condon-Wadlin centers on GOP insistence that any new law should mandate tough penalties for employe unions that violate the no-strike policy. Democrats, backed by the AFL-CIO, have refused to accept this premise.

May Note GOP Year of 1966 Time of Reluctant Dragons

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — In Republican party history, 1966 may go down as the year of the reluctant dragons.

First, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and now Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania have declared themselves uninterested in running for president in 1968.

Running for Governor

Gov. George Romney of Michigan says he is only running for governor. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he is not a candidate for anything.

You may take them at their word but don't bet that the politicians will.

Often in politics, "no" has meant "maybe" and politicians don't give up easily on a potential nominee if they think he might be a winner.

In 1948 when boosters were booming Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a presidential possibility, he issued a statement saying, "I am not available for and cannot accept nomination for high political office." He said his decision was "definite and positive."

Early in 1952 he said he was a Republican and indicated he would run for president if he received a "clear cut call to political duty." The call came, he answered it and spent eight years in the White House.

Same Attitude

Adlai E. Stevenson, who was to be the Democratic presidential nominee twice, once took exactly the same attitude as Romney's present one.

After President Harry S. Truman said in March 1952 that he would not be a candidate for re-election, Stevenson was asked if he might be a candidate.

"I am a candidate for governor of Illinois and nothing else," he replied.

Stevenson remained the reluctant man in public attitude. Even as the convention was meeting, he said, "If it be possible let this cup pass me."

Those words are from St Matthew's report of what Jesus said at Gethsemane. The rest of the verse: "Nevertheless not as I will but as Thou wilt."

Ran Strong, Deep

The political reluctance to accept a reluctant man's words ran strong and deep in the case of President Calvin Coolidge.

On Aug. 2, 1927 Coolidge declared, "I do not choose to run for President in 1928."

Yet efforts to draft him persisted right up to the Republican convention in June 1928. The argument of the would-be drafters was that not choosing to run didn't mean that he wouldn't accept a nomination.

Coolidge never expanded on his statement.

Anyhow, don't bet that all the politicians have scratched Rockefeller and Scranton off their lists of presidential possibilities.

The two were about as firm and direct as a man can be, but still they were short of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's renunciation:

"If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve."

Ford Raps Johnson's Press Conferences

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson avoids "tough questions" from expert reporters by scheduling "quickie news conferences," says the House Republican leader.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, addressing a Steuben county GOP fund-raising dinner here Saturday, said Johnson's press conferences demonstrate his "arrogance toward the press and the American people."

The press conferences called without "ample advance notice" prevent newsmen who are specialists in particular fields from attending, Ford said.

"Often these specialists ask questions that are tough for the president to answer," Ford said, "but they are also questions a president should answer if the American people are to have confidence in their government."

He said Johnson has had "only one full-fledged news conference" so far this year and called "only five" last year, compared to the late President John F. Kennedy's average of one every other week.

Health for All

Too Many Encores

In the entertainment world it's called giving an encore; it means going through the whole thing again.

In another world—health and medicine—it's called have a relapse, and there's nothing entertaining about it. Certainly not when the thing being gone through again is tuberculosis.

Yet that's what happens to ten thousand Americans every year, in addition to about 50,000 who come down with active TB for the first time.

Why do so many people recovering or recovered from this serious disease find themselves trapped in a return bout? Nobody knows the whole answer, but many investigators—doctors, nurses, public health workers, research scientists — are trying hard to find out.

One reason on which everybody seems to agree is failure of the discharged patient or convalescent outpatient to do his homework. This means primarily taking his prescribed medicine; it also is very apt to include such things as periodic chest X-rays, proper nutrition, adequate rest, and reporting back to the clinic at stated intervals.

Discharged or convalescent patients who neglect these things can get actively sick again—sick enough to infect other people.

The National Tuberculosis Association is preparing to establish some model TB clinics where reactions to treatment and advice can be studied scientifically. This, it is hoped, will yield information about best ways to induce wayward patients to cooperate successfully in finally ridding themselves—and ultimately the entire national community — of tuberculosis. Meanwhile your Christmas Seal association suggest an easy means of cooperation for every citizen in its TB eradication drive: see that your annual health checkup includes a tuberculin test or a chest X-ray.

Is there really a Tiger in Esso Extra?
Some folks doubt it.
But not our customers. They've proved to their own satisfaction that High-energy Esso Extra can bring power back alive.
That the first tankful starts neutralizing power-robbing engine deposits to help prevent hot spots and misfiring. And just a few more tankfuls can clean up a fouled carburetor to restore lost power and mileage.
And that Esso Extra gives them the high octane for lively performance—to help them pass safely when they need to or take off in a hurry when they enter a freeway. Oh, it's a Tiger all right.
Still skeptical? Try Esso Extra and find out for yourself. "Happy Motoring!"•

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

ARTICLE OMITS IMPORTANT POINT: PHONE MANNERS MUST BE FLEXIBLE

Dear Mrs. Post: I agree with you that in most cases a person who asks a telephone caller, "Who's calling?" is indeed impolite. But please consider those of us whose husbands travel on business now and then. It is most uncomfortable to tell an unidentified caller the whereabouts of one's husband and when he will be home. Therefore when my husband is out of town, I reply, 'Mr. Smith is not at home." Then when the caller asks when I expect him home I reply, "Who is this, please?' If I am familiar with the name, I give him further information. My children have been instructed to answer that their father is not home, and if the caller wants any further information, they are to turn the call over to me.—R.H.

Dear R.H.: I received several similar letters criticizing my statement that it is impolite to say, "Who is calling?" when answering the telephone. I want to thank all for your comments and to tell you that under the circumstances mentioned above and also when children are left alone at home, I agree with you absolutely.

My objection to the question was directed toward a maid or a child who asks the name and then says, "Mrs. Jones is not in," giving the impression that Mrs. Jones simply doesn't wish to talk.

Pierced Ears Can Disappoint

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like your opinion on a 13-year-old girl having her ears pierced. I want mine done, but my mother says no! We've been arguing since last summer and every time I bring up the subject she changes it. Please straighten it out.—J.P.

Dear J.P.: Please wait a few years before deciding to have your ears pierced. You are really too young to wear earrings all day long which is necessary once it is done. I can only tell you that some of my daughter's friends had their ears pierced when they were 18, and at least two of them are allowing them to close up because they have found it more of a nuisance than it was worth.

The regular monthly business meeting conducted by the newly elected officers will also be held that night in order to acquaint new members with the workings of the association.

Synod Delegates Return; 2 Named To State Posts

The Rev. John F. Frenssen, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church and Louis H. Schafer, member of the church council returned from the fifth annual convention of the New York Synod of the Lutheran Church of America, in Syracuse. It had the largest attendance ever with 698 clergymen, delegatees and visitors.

There are 377 churches in the New York Synod, therefore for over a year it was discussed that it should divide, so as to give better stewardship and at the same time be the equal of other synods in America.

The Rev. Mr. Frenssen, a member of the executive committee was elected to serve another two year term. The Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise was selected to be a special delegate at the third Biennial Convention in Kansas City, June 21 to 29th.

William H. Stackel, 81 years of age, was honored for his 30 years as a Sunday school teacher in the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in Rochester. He has served the church and local christian movement in his area. In 1950, the Episcopal Diosiese church of Rochester named him as the "Outstanding Protestant Churchman of the Year". He is the director emeritus of the Security Trust Company in Rochester where he served for 62 years. Mr. Stackel, was honored a year ago with a life membership in the Rochester YMCA after 65 years of membership and now is an honorary member of the board.

There were 17 young men ordained into the ministery at the Hendrick's Chapel at Syracuse University with over 1,000 people in attendance. Each young man to be ordained must have accepted a pastorate in a Lutheran Church in the New York Synod. Three other young men will be ordained in July.

Camp Cleanup

Thirty teenagers, members of the YMCA's Hi-Y Clubs, participated Saturday in a "clean-up, paint-up, fix-up day" at the YMCA's Day Camp in Shokan. Sixteen of the youth traveled by chartered bus to the camp while fourteen others went by private cars.

The service project was to help make the camp ready for the 170 boys and girls who will be served by the camp each week this summer. Projects included cleaning cabins, painting, washing windows, clearing brush and cleaning up the swimming and boating beach. Some of the youth involved will serve as counselors at the camp this summer.

Boys and girls, age 5½ to 14, may register for the YMCA Day Camp, and they are assigned to various groups according to age and grade in school. Activities include swimming instruction, recreational swimming, boating, archery, fishing, crafts, nature study, campcraft and riflery for senior campers.

Special events, such as trips and overnights, are scheduled during each period. There are four two-week periods beginning June 27, and one one-week period from August 22-26. Persons interested should contact the YMCA office on Broadway.

The most important single piece of equipment you use in accomplishing your work is your own body. Knowing effective ways to use your body will eliminate or minimize physical strain that might injure it, and may at the same time help you work quickly and easily, Phyllis W. Barlow, home economist, points out in the following article:

The body is divided into three main weights: the head, the chest, and the pelvic or hip section. Proper alignment of these three weights locates the first two — head and chest — directly over the base of support—the hip section— in a vertical arrangement. In this balanced position the muscles can maintain good posture with a minimum of strain and effort whether you are working or playing, sitting, standing, walking, or climbing.

Obviously, however, you cannot accomplish all your work with your body in a straight erect position You must do countless jobs requiring bending, lifting, carrying, and reaching. These activities permit a change of position which is restful for a change. Even a poor position if maintained for a short period of time is not harmful and will allow some muscles to relax. However, the well-aligned position described above should be the basic position of the body not only when you are standing but also during every possible activity.

Interest in good posture and persistent practice are essential if a well aligned body is to become a habit. The following rules will help you to use your body effectively and prevent fatigue and muscle strain.

Keep the three body sections in alignment; stand straight.

Work at convenient heights, changing positions often.

When lifting a heavy object, place one foot slightly ahead of the other, squat, and use your strong leg muscles to do the work.

When lifting, hold the object as close to your body as possible.

Avoid lifting whenever possible by using stands, wheels, runners.

Work rhythmically, using both hands when possible; make long smooth arm motions rather than short jerky ones.

Picture yourself as you work. Become motion-minded. Let your body work for you all day every day!

Teen Challenge Program Slated At Stone Ridge

An evangelist from Teen Challenge will be speaking at the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge on Sunday, June 12, at 7:30 p. m. Also featured that evening will be two young people from Teen Challenge giving their personal testimony, and a film that is shocking the nation entitled Teen Revolt.

Six years ago, a young country preacher, Dave Wilkerson, went into the streets and slums of New York City to preach the gospel of redemption to the teenage drug addicts and members of the big city's gangs—teenagers hardened to every kind of crime and violence. The success of his efforts with these teenagers resulted in an organization called Teen Challenge. The story of Teen Challenge was recently featured in Life magazine because of their gratifying results in work among teenage drug addicts in New York City.

This program is being sponsored by the Stone Ridge Bible Class. The public may attend.

Peters Has His Kicks

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The start for Peters was his first in two weeks, since he strained the bicep in his left arm in the first inning of a game against Cleveland.

"It was the best game I've thrown in two years," said Peters, who didn't allow the Senators a hit until the seventh inning. The performance brought his record to 3-2 and his earned run average to 2.18.

It also gave him two complete games, one more than he had all of last year, and one shutout, also one more than he had last year when he dipped from 20-game season in 1964 to a 10-12 record and a 3.63 ERA.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

While Peters is enjoying his pitching more, the rest of the White Sox staff is having fun, too.

On Shutout Spree

The shutout was the sixth in the last 10 games for Chicago, a period which has seen the pitching staff post an amazing ERA of 0.80. In that time, too, the White Sox have won eight games and moved from seventh place, 10½ games back, to fourth place, 5½ out.

Elsewhere in the American League Minnesota whipped Cleveland 9-4, Baltimore edged Kansas City 6-5 in the 12th inning of a suspended game before losing the regular game 9-4, New York downed Boston 5-3 and Detroit swept California 8-4 and 4-1.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and a triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Killebrew Raps Homer

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night because of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

Jim Bouton got relief help from Steve Hamilton and Pedro Ramos for his first victory since last June 30. Bouton, who tired in the seventh inning, singled across two runs in the Yankees' three-run sixth. Roger Maris hit a two-run homer for New York in the first.

Don Wert led Detroit past California, driving in six runs in the doubleheader. He knocked in four runs in the opener with a single and a triple and produced a key two-run single in the second inning of the nightcap.

Play 8-8 Tie

Lions Club and Fraser and Myers Maytag battled to an 8-8 tie in the American Little League.

Lourdes Nine Section Winner

Our Lady of Lourdes tied the score with a single run in the 7th inning, then beat Poughkeepsie High in the 8th, 5 to 4, to win the 1966 Central Section baseball title in the Dutchess County Scholastic League.

It was first major championship ever won by the school. The Lourdes Warriors, coached by Vin Dutkowsky, won their last eight games of the season and finished with an overall record of 13 wins, 4 losses and 2 ties, the best record in the school's history.

Cardenas, Stargell On Sprees

By MIKE RATHET

Leo Cardenas fell one homer shy of a record. He won't get another chance — without starting over.

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance — without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3 before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle-flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

Has Shot at Two

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 — last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943 — and the major league record of 12 — last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, Atlanta crushed St. Louis 14-4, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

Cardenas provided all the runs the Reds' needed in the opener, driving in five runs with two homers and a single. Ron Santo and Randy Hundley homered for the Cubs.

Cardenas also hit two homers in the nightcap and added a double while driving in three runs, but the Cubs came from behind and won it with a five-run ninth. Billy Williams drove in the tying and lead runs with a two-out single.

Stargell drove in four runs against the Astros with his two homers, two singles and a double leading a 16-hit attack that stretched the Pirates' winning streak to five. Roberto Clemente also homered while Jim Wynn hit a pair for the Astros in a 4-for-4 performance.

Menke on Spree

The Braves rolled to their third straight victory after a string of seven losses by unloading 16 hits against the Cardinals. Denis Menke led the outburst that included a seven-run fifth inning in which 13 men batted by driving in five runs with a homer and four singles.

The Giants tied the Phillies in the ninth on singles by Tito Fuentes and Willie Mays around a sacrifice, then won it in the 10th when Hal Lanier tagged reliever Bo Belinsky for a two-out homer. Dick Groat drove in four of Philadelphia's runs.

Sandy Koufax won the opener for the Dodgers with a five-hitter, joining San Francisco's Juan Marichal as the majors' only 10-game winners. Koufax was supported by a 19-hit attack that included five straight hits by Tommy Davis and two homers by Wes Parker.

Davis added two hits and Parker added a homer in the nightcap. But the Mets won it in the ninth when they pushed across a run on singles by Ken Boyer and Jerry Grote around an intentional walk, and a wild pitch by reliever Ron Perranoski.

Ulster Indians Edge Tigers, 9-6

The Ulster Businessmen's Indians trailed the entire game but exploded for four runs in the top of the sixth and held off a determined Nytralite Tigers rally to beat their rivals, 9-6.

Jay Snyder picked up the win for the Indians and helped his cause by going 2-4 including a double. Steve Vasilevich stroked a homer for the winners and Bob Smith bombed one for the Tigers.

Steve Van Kleeck took the loss for the Tigers.

Hurley Red Sox Lose to Yanks, 8-2

Gary Littlefield had a perfect day at the plate with a double and three singles, leading the Yankees to an 8-2 pasting of the Red Sox in a Hurley Little League baseball game.

Ken Hoffstatter pitched a 2-hitter for the winners, striking out seven and collecting a double and single. The winners had eight hits off Glen Beesmer, who wiffed nine.

The winning pitcher, Steve Nelson, had better control, striking out 13 but walking only six batters. He helped his cause with a home run.

There were only eight hits in the game, three off Nelson and five off Mayone. Willie Clearwater had two of the three Braves hits including a triple. Jeff Myer had a pair of hits for the winners.

Good Shot Takes Monticello Race

MONTICELLO — Good Shot provided a good upset Saturday night at Monticello Raceway in taking the featured Veterans of Foreign Wars free-for-all pace. Getting the advantage of a superb drive by trainer Joe MacDonald, Good Shot streaked through the homestretch for a length and a half decision in 2:03.3.

The $4,000 pace only had six entries but the action throughout would have made one think there were sixteen in the field. A head to head duel by Chief Maynard and Quick Dream from the three-length's pole to the head of the stretch set the stage for Good Shot's perfect journey

Owned by the Kayvee Stable of Orchard Park, New York, Good Shot chalked up his second win of the year in taking the feature. Both of his victories have been at the Mighty M and he returned $20.40, 8.20 and 4.40 across the board.

The 4 and 1 daily double paid $103.00. Winning horses were Bonnie Faber in the first and Francis R. in the second. The evening's twin double returned $576.00. Winning combination was 6-1-2-5. There were 61 live tickets.

The perfecta paid $180.60. Winning combination was 7-1. A crowd of 7,732 was on hand to wager $444,387.

YMCA to Quit Softball

Saturday, the YMCA softball schedule was stopped again because of insufficient attendance.

Last weekend the games were not played because of the holiday. This makes the schedule two weeks behind.

June 11 and 18 the games will be played off. The June 18 game will decide the championship. This 'Y' team (the winners) will probably meet other 'Y' teams throughout the area.

Mike Derrenbacher scored Kingston's run on a single, passed ball, wild pitch and Pete Watzka's sacrifice fly to center. Poughkeepsie scored in the same manner as Stokes singled and completed the route on a steal, wild pitch and sacrifice fly.

Suspend Chess Play Until Fall

Eugene Meyer retains first place on the ladder, as the Kings Knight Chess Club has suspended play until the fall season.

Suspension was due to the large number of rated tournaments which are planned in the area this summer. The latter tournament will resume with Meyer leading and John Mager in second place.

Trailing the leaders in order are: Guy Branda, Fred Stern, Leo Garel, Dr. Dave Gerbarg, William Wetterer, Carl Lundquist, Nathan Katatsky, Anthony Criscimagna, Richard Eng, William Seabury, Mike Mischer, Carl Mehlig, Larry Houlihan, Ronnie Sobieraj, Parker Ballantine, Eric Greenberg, Dawn Criscimagna, John Seabury.

In final matches, William Wetterer defeated Carl Lundquist and moved into the No. 7 position. Mike Fischer won over Carl Mehlig and went into 13th position. Fred Stern retained fourth place with a win over Leo Garel and Nathan Katatsky retained 9th place by beating Richard Eng.

Monticello and Roosevelt Set Yankey Trots This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least two harness tracks in New York State — Monticello Raceway and Roosevelt Raceway—list Yankey Trots as their main feature this week.

Yankey is recognized as the first horse to trot the mile in less than three minutes. His mile in 2:59 was on June 10, 1806.

The race at Monticello carries a $4,000 purse and may attact speedsters Dasher Hanover and Spindletop Joe.

Two of last year's top 3-year-olds, Armbro Flight and Noble Victory, are among the candidates for the $25,000 race at Roosevelt.

Both Yankey Trots are on Friday night, June 10.

Also upcoming at Roosevelt is the $12,500 Dan Patch Pace for 2-year-olds Saturday night.

Mighty Bret Hanover, a 4-year-old, defeated 10-year-old Cardigan Bay in the $50,000 Revenge Pace at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday.

The appropriately named race squared matters between the two top sidewheelers, giving each one victory over the other. They meet again Saturday at Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia.

Bret Hanover, clocked over the mile in 1:59, was trailed by three-quarters of a length by Rex Pick. The New Zealand bred Cardigan Bay finished third, another three-quarters of a length back.

In feature races at other harness tracks in New York State Saturday:

MONTICELLO — Good Shot ($20.40), an outsider, won the $4,000 pace at Monticello Raceway. The mile was timed in 2:03 3-5.

VERNON — True Counsel ($16.20) came from third at the top of the stretch and won the $3,000 pace at Vernon Downs by two lengths in a fast 1:59 2-5.

BUFFALO—Hal Marino ($24.60), a 5-year-old gelding, captured the $3,000 pace at Buffalo Raceway by a neck in 2:04 1-5.

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Armbro Guest ($4.40) took the lead at the top of the stretch and won the $1,500 Northern Star pace at Saratoga Raceway. The 3-year-old colt, undefeated this season, was timed in 2:04 3-5.

Circus Shows Here Tonight

The three-ring, 12 tented Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. arrived here Sunday night for two performances today at Dietz Stadium. The shows will go on at 4 p. m. and again at 8 p. m.

Even though the big circus has been modernized, it still relies on elephants to do the major share of the work in tent erection.

Headlining this year's edition of the Beatty-Cole Circus is Captain Dave Hoover, who replaces the late Clyde Beatty, with whom he worked. There will be more new acts this season than ever before in the history of the world's largest circus.

The circus is showing here under the auspices of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus.

The circus will move to Newburgh from here and then appear in other New York State cities before going across the seaboard.

Goldberg Seeks Mutual Cessation Of Hostilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Arthur J Goldberg orients senators today amid indications the United States may bid for General Assembly action to supervise South Viet Nam's proposed elections.

Goldberg, who has encountered stiff opposition within Security Council circles to Saigon's request for U.N. observers, scheduled a luncheon with about 15 senators. Most of the 15 are considered liberals and some have criticized President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Goldberg called Sunday for a "mutual cessation of all types of hostilities" in Viet Nam and urged that a new Geneva conference be held to reaffirm 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements for peace in Southeast Asia.

In a commencement address at the Catholic University of America here, Goldberg also said the United States was prepared to abide by the results of reunification elections contemplated by the 1954 Geneva agreement "whatever these results might be."

Today's informal exchange of views between Goldberg and the group of senators was arranged by Sen. Frank E. Moss., D-Utah., who expected most of the discussion to center on the role the United Nations might play—if any—in policing the selection of a constitutional assembly in South Viet Nam.

This month's Security Council president, Frank H. Corner of New Zealand, has been canvassing council members after Secretary General U Thant made it known he does not believe he has authority to send observers.

If council action is blocked, as appears likely, the United States may try to gain a special session of the General Assembly to put the matter before it.

The assembly is not scheduled to meet in regular session until September, the same month in which the elections tentatively have been set by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has suggested reconvening the Geneva conference to take up the question of election observers. But he received no reply.

Great Britain, France and Russia are co-chairmen of the 1954 conference which divided Viet Nam and ordered subsequent reunification elections which were never held.

Missing Upstate Boy Is Found in Good Condition

CAROGA LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Three-year-old Russell Stearns, who was separated from his brothers Sunday and spent the night alone in dense woods, was found today by State Police in dense woods about 1½ miles from his home.

He was taken to the Nathan Littauer Hospital in Gloversville. Other than a few insect bites, he was reported in good condition.

Search parties criss-crossed the rain-soaked forests of the southern Adirondacks through the night to find the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Sterns of Caroga Lake, about 15 miles northwest of Gloversville.

The search — through an area interspersed with thick cedar swamps—began about 5:30 p.m. Sunday after the two older boys, aged 9 and 11, returned to the family's home and said they could not find their brother. They had been playing hide-and-seek, the older boys said.

The Stearns family lives on the Johnstown - Caroga Lake Road.

MASSIVE MEMORIAL—Bolivian sculptor Mauro Nunez cut out a big job for himself when he took on a memorial to Simon Bolivar, South America's George Washington. The massive head of the founder of five nations—Venezuela, Colombia, Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia—is carved from a thousand-year-old algarrobo tree, is 10 feet high and weighs four tons. It will stand in the Bolivian capital of La Paz as a permanent memorial to Bolivar.

Scooters Are Flourishing, Number Doubled in Year

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) —The family car may never become obsolete, but for one new breed of American—the scooter commuter—automobiles are passe.

Each morning the scooter commuter pegs his pant legs, lashes his brief case tightly to the back of a motorcycle, and blithely speeds through traffic jams where no mere car can move.

There is a female of the species, too, who cares not in the least that her combination of high-heeled shoes and a motorcycle crash helmet is not in the best fashion tradition.

The breed, a rarity just a few years ago, has flourished in the environment of overcrowded superhighways. In 1965 the scooter commuter population doubled, and it is expected to redouble in 1966.

Motorscooters, motorcycles and motorbikes are everywhere. In New York, even the police have "put-putt patrols."

Convenience and Fun

"These things are convenient and a heck of a lot of fun," said one commuter as he waited for a light to change on Park Avenue.

Another concurred, adding that riding the cycles is also safer than the subways.

"I bought this cycle on the first warm day we had in March," said Jeffrey Thompson. "About 18 people elbowed me in the kidneys on a subway trip, and I decided then and there never to take a subway again."

Thompson was carrying a passenger—Tina Johnson— who looked very much like a fashion model, except for a crash helmet.

"It isn't mine," Miss Johnson said. "Jeffrey made me wear it."

Lawrence Meegan of the New York State Motor Vehicles Department says the cycle explosion is amazing. "Sometimes we find it hard to believe that we've issued so many cycle licenses."

Strike Big Factor

One big factor in New York was the 12-day transit strike last January. Commuters unable to get to and from work on subways and buses turned to their cars, and the resulting traffic tie-ups were daylong affairs.

It was then that many a commuter found it easier to switch than fight.

Among them were Bob and Peggy Kriegel.

"It was a heaven-sent blessing," Kriegel said after he and his wife had spurted through Manhattan's morning rush-hour traffic. "No matter how bad the traffic jams got, we never had any trouble."

Another cyclist, John Schweitzer, admitted "It was a little cold riding this thing during the January strike, but it was plenty handy."

Cycles also are handy for meeting people.

Armand Romano has been commuting by motorscooter for a year. Two months ago he offered a ride to a girl from his apartment building and has been taking her to work every day since.

When a reporter stopped them and asked their names, she identified her as Joan Oettinger.

Romano turned to her.

"No kidding," he said. "I never knew your name before. It's nice to meet you."

Marbletown GOP Hears Goldberg On Consumer Aid

Maurice Goldberg, an assistant attorney general of New York, spoke last week about the various aspects of the office of the attorney general and its 20 some bureaus.

His main topic at a session of the Marbletown GOP was the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection on which he had planned to show a film, but due to an uncooperative projector the film could not be shown. Goldberg did a complete job of filling in. Over 30 persons attended for the topic.

Besides S. James Matthews, also present were, H. Clark Bell and Louis P. Francello, all of whom are presently campaigning for the position as delegates to the State Constitutional Convention. Each of these men gave his own resume to the group.

Prior to the speakers, a new member, Alton Wells of Kripplebush was welcomed into the club. Also, a report of the coming family picnic was made by Orvil E. Norman, co-chairman with William Davenport. The family picnic is to be held on August 14 at the old Tongore Park near Stone Ridge and is to be a regular family affair starting about 1 p. m. Tickets for this outing will be sold by each and every member and the public is invited to enjoy the delicious barbecued chicken and refreshments.

The next Marbletown Republican Club meeting will be held July 7 at 8 p. m. at Lomontville Firehouse. All members are urged to attend and bring a friend.

3 Killed in Gotham

NEW YORK (AP) — Three persons—a man and two women—were killed and three others were injured today when a car driven by a New Jersey woman jumped the divider on the Henry Hudson Parkway at 81st Street and crashed into an oncoming auto.

Identities of the dead and two of the injured were not immediately available.

Police gave this account:

Marie Agnes Purdy, 40, of Bergenfield, N.J., was alone in her northbound car when it veered into the path of a southbound auto carrying four women and a man.

In the collision, Miss Purdy was thrown from her car. She was in fair condition at Roosevelt Hospital.

The man, who was driving the southbound vehicle, and a woman in the front seat were pinned in the wreckage. They and a woman in the back seat were dead on arrival at the hospital.

Miss Purdy lives at 50 South First Ave.

Rites Are Held At Early Burial Plot in Tillson

On saturday morning your correspondent upon an invitation from Henry Mollenhauer visited old Freer Cemetery which is located about 500 feet west of Route 32 on River Road near the Half Moon Farm, Tillson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mollenhauer live very close to this old cemetery and from them I learned that this section was originally called Bontecou and the lands at this location were settled by the Freer family.

This old burying ground dates back to 1798 and shows the monument of H. F. Freer, 1798. The last stone bears the date 1899.

Mr. Mollenhauer said that the public is welcome to visit this cemetery and both Mr. and Mrs. Mollenhauer take great interest in this lot and are keeping the plot cleaned up and hope to prevent vandalism to the markers.

Through the efforts of Mr. Mollenhauer a number of local residents were invited for a ceremony which was held on Memorial Day. A prayer was given by the Rev. Joseph Irwin of St. Peter's Church Rosendale. The raising and salute to the flag was by Rosendale Boy Scouts with John B. Helmer Jr. scoutmaster. Richard DeSimone was the flag bearer and the color guard, James Mulligan and Bruce Warnske.

A flag was placed on the grave of Alexander Van Wagenen of the 156 New York Volunteers of the Civil War by Carleen Burger great grand daughter of Richard Elmendorf also of 156 Regiment New York Volunteers of the Civil War.

An address was given by Mr. Mollenhauer on the care of our small rural cemeteries. Daniel Malone, Commander of Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219 of the American Legion was introduced by Mr. Mollenhauer.
